The VEDIC approach to MANAGEMENT for sustainable LEADERHIP Mahesh Prabhu,2020-11-13 Management is crucial not just for individuals in leadership positions but for anyone with responsibilities Managing is about utilizing limited available resources to create value generate wealth and achieve viable prosperity While there is no shortage of appealing and entertaining definitions on the subject matter the knowledge and approach to achieve these objectives are limited The oldest works on management and leadership Arthashastra and Artha Sutras were written by the Vedic Rishis sages over thousands of years These Rishis even offered Pro Bono services to the Kings as their Rajaguru Royal Mentors Some of these Rajagurus even helped to build some of the most powerful and prosperous empires of their times Their teachings on management leadership and wealth creation are not driven by ephemeral processes but by helping individuals to achieve and retain a clam mind to identify challenges create credible strategies to achieve daunting objectives In this book U Mahesh Prabhu a seasoned international media management and political consultant presents as to how by knowing understanding and realizing these timeless yet time tested Vedic teachings modern individuals and leaders can achieve greater clarity create fine opportunities even amid great uncertainties and attain sustainable prosperity Sustainable Leadership in Critical

Times Pearly Jacob,2013 The greatest crisis today is not the depression recession or financial meltdown but rather the crisis of leadership The leadership that will have a lasting effect on the humanity the leadership that will not be for the self sustenance but for the greater good of the humanity The leadership that will be a role model for the people to follow which will percolate through the veins of the society and build more sustainable leaders That will emphasize on the well being of the society the nations and the globe at large The leadership which is the concerned not on its effect on the community at the moment and its benefits and growth at the present moment but also in the days to come It is concerned with the lasting effect of inspiring guiding and building the community This paper attempts to develop model for sustainable leadership Many studies have been conducted on leadership but the author here attempts to synchronize the studies but at the same time develop its own model for the sustainable leadership In this paper the author attempts to diagnose the reasons of leadership problems faced today The reason today the world is seeing so many leaders who are crashing to the floor is because they have not dealt with their situations their problems their weakness and are in the battle room The only way a leader can have sustainability and influence for the permanent change in the lives of its followers is only when the leader has first solved its personal infirmities The reason of so many sex scandals corruptions etc is due to this major reason We cannot separate our being into two different clones and function one as in the public field and another in the private life The two has to be one and only when the two have integrated it is only then that the leader can lead by example The leader will have to be tough at times to self to discipline and push itself to remove the unwanted things from its life The leader is a one who fights these little battles of self cleansing and purification and then treads into the world to influence a sustainable change Why are the people still looking for a clean image of a political corporate or national leader because there is a thirst in human kind to see a bench mark to live by The people are seeking to follow those who have integrity and have answers to various issues which are encountered daily in private as well as public life in the life of the community nation and the world The most of the leaders of today seem to be visionary at the face value but when scratched will in truth reflect their personal agendas that are being pursued This is the problem which leads to unsustainable leadership The complacency and indifferent attitude towards life and value system will not last for very long if we are for a look out of enduring leadership The world is looking for sustainable leaders who can influence in the positive way not a fad not a style not for a season but for a generation Mahatma Gandhi s relevance to the world is even greater today His relevance and ideology doesn t seem to age or wane off with time or circumstances The reason of his influence in every generation is because of his uniqueness of belonging and living by the framework he built for himself It is not the framework that the world makes for you that is important but rather the framework which you build for yourself and live by it The world is aching and needs an icon on whose footsteps they can follow A sustainable leader does not take the glory to self but rather acknowledges the contribution of everyone who directly and indirectly are a part of the team The island mentality is an alien concept not a part of enduring leadership If we are to design a model for sustainable leadership we need to get the answers to the above questions This paper attempts to develop a model for sustainable leadership The Quest for Sustainable Leadership Eric S. Harter, 1999
