The Light of Amsterdam David Park, 2012-01-01 It is December in Belfast Christmas is approaching and three sets of people are about to make their way to Amsterdam Alan a university art teacher stands watching the grey sky blacken waiting for George Best's funeral cortege to pass He will go to Amsterdam to see Bob Dylan in concert but also in the aftermath of his divorce in the hope that the city which once welcomed him as a young man and seemed to promise a better future will reignite those sustaining memories He doesn't yet know that his troubled teenage son Jack will accompany his pilgrimage Karen is a single mother struggling to make ends meet by working in a care home and cleaning city centre offices She is determined to give her daughter the best wedding that she can But as she boards the plane with her daughter's hen party she will soon be shocked into questioning where her life of sacrifices has brought her Meanwhile middle aged couple Marion and Richard are taking a break from running their garden centre to celebrate Marion's birthday In Amsterdam Marion's anxieties and insecurities about age desire and motherhood come to the surface and lead her to make a decision that threatens to change the course of her marriage As these people brush against each other in the squares museums and parks of Amsterdam their lives are transfigured as they encounter the complexities of love in a city that challenges what has gone before Tender and humane and elevating the ordinary to something timeless and important The Light of Amsterdam is a novel of compassion and rare dignity

New York Supreme Court, Sharing Cities Duncan McLaren, Julian Agyeman, 2015-12-04 How cities can build on the sharing economy and smart technology to deliver a sharing paradigm that supports justice solidarity and sustainability The future of humanity is urban and the nature of urban space enables and necessitates sharing of resources goods and services experiences Yet traditional forms of sharing have been undermined in modern cities by social fragmentation and commercialization of the public realm In Sharing Cities Duncan McLaren and Julian Agyeman argue that the intersection of cities highly networked physical space with new digital technologies and new mediated forms of sharing offers cities the opportunity to connect smart technology to justice solidarity and sustainability McLaren and Agyeman explore the opportunities and risks for sustainability solidarity and justice in the changing nature of sharing McLaren and Agyeman propose a new sharing paradigm which goes beyond the faddish sharing economy seen in such ventures as Uber and TaskRabbit to envision models of sharing that are not always commercial but also communal encouraging trust and collaboration Detailed case studies of San Francisco Seoul Copenhagen Medell n Amsterdam and Bengaluru formerly Bangalore contextualize the authors discussions of collaborative consumption and production the shared public realm both physical and virtual the design of sharing to enhance equity and justice and the prospects for scaling up the sharing paradigm through city governance They show how sharing could shift values and norms enable civic engagement and political activism and rebuild a shared urban commons Their case for sharing and solidarity offers a powerful alternative for urban futures to conventional race to the bottom narratives of competition enclosure and division Nautical Magazine ,1888
