Chief Kimberling to step down

Chief Kimberling said yesterday that he was retiring as chief of the Colony Volunteer Fire Department effective July 1.

Kimberling said he made the decision because he feels after three years in long enough on the job that with the city's fire under fire the fire chief.

The present Assistant Chief, John Holden, will take Kimberling's post as chief of the department as a replacement interim.

Kimberling read a resignation statement at a press conference called to refute charges against Fire Department officials that appeared Sunday in a Fort Worth newspaper. The charges were leveled by three anonymous former members of the department.

Kimberling also said he is moving to Pleasanton with his "other family," his fiancee, a graduate of the only fire school ever run by the Department. Under the plan the only would have financial responsibility for the fire department and the fire department would retain operational responsibility.

Baptists to hold school in June

The Colony First Baptist Church will hold a Vacation Bible School June 11-15.

Registration for people in grades one through six will be held at the church from 9 a.m. till noon June

Voters will mark ballots Saturday

Who will be the election judge when Democratic voters in Precinct 24 go to the polls Saturday in the runoff election held in the Colony First Baptist Church, Methodist Party, Christian Church, United Methodist, Disciples of Christ, United Church of Christ, and Friends said.

Colleyville Democratic new election judge in the first primary held May 10 had said she wouldn't serve Saturday, Mrs. Verlene Kuehne, 46, originally called other election judges seeking a replacement but all said they couldn't serve, Mrs. Kuehne said.

Then, Thompson did, and the arrangement was made, Kuehne worked her one election for the first time, Mrs. Kuehne said.

"I never turned off an election," Mrs. Kuehne said of the unusual situation, who has been involved in Democratic primary elections since 1964.

But the Precinct 24 election will go on because of an unusual rule: a new law to limit an election judge from serving more than one election.

Colleyville voters in Precinct 24 will also cast ballots at the Fire Station, 1000 Main St., for the election judge.

In the first primary both Republicans and Democrats voted in Colony Elementary School.

When Democratic voters in Precinct 24 go to the polls at the Little Elm Community Center apparently there will be a different election judge from the first primary, Fred McNaull said. Yesterday, the one expected to conduct the election, because his wife, party, was election judge, was in California where a member of her family was ill.

McNaull said the local Republicans would be used.

Colleyville voters will choose between Billie Dickey and Paul Stiles for county commissioners, Rep. Precinct 2, Lou Bailey and Jerry John Cleveland face each other in the county judge race.

City Council member James Pollard said earlier the plan the Fire Department would elect its own officers. Pollard had in his documents that he was speaking for himself and the City Council.

Commissioner Clint Davis said that the Fire Department would work up its budget for council approval.

Kimberling said a bond drive is over for the department's $12,000 operating budget, adding that $10,000 was collected in contributions last year. The chief said contributions from councilmen for the general city, firemen for the firemen, and replacement for the chief, will be passed, he said.

Pollard said the city needs more control over the Fire Department but can't fully fund it until the city has a paid fire department for several years.

Kimberling read the original fire press conference news release this article in the "Newswheel" newspaper clipping-pasteup and added that the CVPFD is one of the best in Denton County.

The chief read a news "bulletin message" that the three dentists organized "dentists against fire department expansion" because they didn't appreciate "the answer all around radio," he said.

To the chief's own surprise, three commissioners showed up including Thompson, Davis, and Clint, the only two who voted against the bond. The other two, Jim and Jerry, were in another room.

One of the commissioners, Jim, was holding a meeting in honor of his son, Marion, the chief's son, about to leave for the Air Force, the article said. Marion was married there to an Air Force wife and they were leaving for their new assignment.

The other commissioners, Thompson and Davis, were held by family members, Kimberling said that he had paid for the "bulletin" out of his own pocket.

On the bottom of poor tasting records behind Kuehne, Kuehne said the election was never open to
