Tiger Rising Literature Circle Guide:

Teaching Evidence-Based Writing: Fiction Leslie Blauman, 2016-09-19 One in a million Yes that's how rare it is to have so many write about reading strategies so beautifully put to use Each year Leslie Blauman guides her students to become highly skilled at supporting their thinking about texts and in Evidence Based Writing Fiction she shares her win win process Leslie combed the ELA standards and all her favorite books and built a lesson structure you can use in two ways with an entire text or with just the excerpts she's included in the book Addressing Evidence Character Theme Point of View Visuals Words and Structure each section includes Lessons you can use as teacher demonstrations or for guided practice with Best the Test tips on how to authentically teach the skills that show up on exams with the texts you teach Prompt Pages serve as handy references giving students the key questions to ask themselves as they read any text and consider how an author's meaning and structure combine Excerpts to Write About Pages feature carefully selected passages from novels short stories and picture books you already know and love and questions that require students to discover a text's literal and deeper meanings Write About Reading Templates scaffold students to think about a text efficiently by focusing on its critical literary elements or text structure demands and help them rehearse for more extensive responses Writing Tasks invite students to transform their notes into a more developed paragraph or essay with sufficiently challenging tasks geared for grades 6-8 And best of all your students gain a confidence in responding to complex texts and ideas that will serve them well in school on tests and in any situation when they are asked What are you basing that on Show me how you know Talk about Books! Liz Knowles, Martha Smith, 2003-07-30 Book clubs literature circles and reading groups are great ways to promote literacy and books to young readers This new guide provides everything you need to run a dynamic no fuss book discussion group with elementary and middle school students Featuring 15 titles of diverse genres it offers discussion topics and activity ideas for some of the best new reads for kids Brought to you by the authors of the highly acclaimed Reading Rules Motivating Teens to Read this guide is an outstanding resource for starting and running a stellar literary discussion group whether it's in a school public library or community center Grades 4-8 Readers Front & Center Dorothy J. Barnhouse, 2014 Every teacher wants and expects his or her students to be reading increasingly complex texts yet sometimes the gap between our expectations and our students abilities seems wide and deep It's tempting to look at that gap and step in to fill it for them but then we'd be doing most of the heavy lifting the understanding analysis and interpretation that our students should be learning for themselves So how can teachers reverse this trend and ensure that our students are fully entering absorbing and experiencing texts How can we make sure they're making complex meaning independently and proficiently as the Common Core State Standards require Readers Front Center answers these questions by framing instruction that starts with the student You'll learn how to do the following Research and listen to your students so your teaching can be more targeted Notice and name your students thinking so they can see what complex thinking looks and sounds like Set your students up to be problem solvers Prepare your students to do increasingly complex thinking in increasingly complex texts Filled with examples of one on one conferences small groups and whole class scenarios this essential book provides an accessible and inspiring model of how and why we need to put students at the front and center of our teaching Give 'em Something to Talk about Jacqueline P.
