Tilting At Mills Green Dreams Dirty Dealings And The Corporate Squeeze:

Tilting At Mills Lis Harris, 2003-03-11 It is New York City in 1992 Unaware of the heartbreak he will encounter the veteran environmentalist Allen Hershkowitz proposes developing a major recycled paper mill in the city He is tired of being outgunned too often by industry lobbyists in legislative battles and wants to develop an environmentally friendly and profitable business that will bring jobs to one of the city's poorest neighborhoods What's more the project could become a national model But Hershkowitz quickly finds himself pitted against surprising forces To the idealist's surprise neighborhood activists fiercely resist outsiders and he must confront byzantine politics and powerful industry hostility The project may be outstanding environmentally and socially but often that's not what matters From beginning to end Tilting at Mills reveals what can occur in attempted alliances between big business and environmentalists and is filled with shocking stories of what really happens behind the scenes in major deal making

New York for Sale Tom Angotti, 2011-02-25 How community based planning has challenged the powerful real estate industry in New York City Remarkably grassroots based community planning flourishes in New York City the self proclaimed real estate capital of the world with at least seventy community plans for different neighborhoods throughout the city Most of these were developed during fierce struggles against gentrification displacement and environmental hazards and most got little or no support from government In fact community based plans in New York far outnumber the land use plans produced by government agencies In New York for Sale Tom Angotti tells some of the stories of community planning in New York City how activists moved beyond simple protests and began to formulate community plans to protect neighborhoods against urban renewal real estate mega projects gentrification and environmental hazards Angotti both observer of and longtime participant in New York community planning focuses on the close relationships among community planning political strategy and control over land After describing the political economy of New York City real estate its close ties to global financial capital and the roots of community planning in social movements and community organizing Angotti turns to specifics He tells of two pioneering plans forged in reaction to urban renewal plans including the first community plan in the city the 1961 Cooper Square Alternate Plan a response to a Robert Moses urban renewal scheme struggles for environmental justice including battles over incinerators sludge and garbage plans officially adopted by the city and plans dominated by powerful real estate interests Finally Angotti proposes strategies for progressive inclusive community planning not only for New York City but for anywhere that neighborhoods want to protect themselves and their land New York for Sale teaches the empowering lesson that community plans can challenge market driven development even in global cities with powerful real estate industries

Business Ethics and the Natural Environment Lisa H. Newton, 2008-04-15 Business Ethics and the Natural Environment examines the present status of relations between corporate enterprise and the natural environment in the world today Discusses such questions as What obligations does a corporation have toward the environment To respect entities unprotected by law To care about future generations Argues that environmentally friendly business practices yield dividends exceeding expectations and that the competitive firm of the 21st century will follow green standards Provides a background in ethics a survey of business ethics an account of environmental philosophy an overview of environmental legal issues and an account of the problems associated with globalization

Beyond Sun and Sand Sherrie L. Baver, Barbara D. Lynch, 2006 Annotation Bringing together ten essays by social scientists and activists this book provides the most comprehensive exploration of the range of environmental issues facing the region and the social movements that have developed to deal with them The authors consider the role that global and regional political economies play in this process

Building the Next Ark Michael M. Gunter, 2004 A timely study of how NGOs are uniquely positioned to help prevent the greatest environmental crisis of all

Streetwise for Book Smarts Celina Su, 2011-02-23 In Streetwise for Book Smarts Celina Su examines the efforts of parents and students who sought to improve the quality of education in their local schools by working with grassroots organizations and taking matters into their own hands In these organizations everyday citizens pursued not only education reform but also democratic accountability and community empowerment These groups had similar resources and operated in the same political context yet their strategies and tactics were very different while some focused on increasing state and city aid to their schools others tried to change the way the schools themselves operated Some coalitions sought accommodation with administrators and legislators others did not The events Su describes began with a series of stabbings in Bronx high schools during the 2003 2004 school year After this rash of violence several grassroots groups cited the need for additional safety patrols Mothers from one school spoke of how they had previously protested until they got extra officers a fairly scarce resource in New York public schools at their local elementary school Others asserted that not all the safety patrol officers already in place were treating students humanely Parent organizations and school officials battled over who was to blame for the school violence Did a police presence solve the problem or did it exacerbate the schools violence prone conditions Members of different groups proposed and mobilized behind a range of remedies These divergent responses shed light on the ways in which the choices made by each organization mattered By learning from Su's close observation of four activist groups in the Bronx including Mothers on the Move and Sistas and Brothas United we can better understand strategies that may ultimately lead to better and safer schools everywhere and help to revitalize American democracy

Mother Jones, 2003 City Limits, 2003 The Publishers Weekly, 2003 The New Yorker Harold Wallace Ross, Katharine Sergeant Angell White, 2003-12
