Chapter 3 "Isn't that school in the ghetto?"

Reading Comprehension: Point of View

Miss Johnson:

Miss Johnson believed that no matter where her students were born, what school they attended, or their family circumstances that they could be successful. She expected nothing but the best from her students.

Woman from the Opera:

The Woman from the Opera assumed that the children were from a private school because the students dressed and behaved well. She assumed that children from a public school in the central ward would not be as well behaved.
