Destruction Jan Driessen, 2013-05-25 Destruction remains a relatively unexplored and badly understood topic in archaeology and history The term itself refers to some form and measurable degree of damage inflicted to an object a system or a being usually exceeding the stage during which repair is still possible but most often it is examined for its impact with destructive events interpreted in terms of a punctuated equilibrium extraordinary features that represent the end of an archaeological culture or historical phase and the beginning of a new one The three day international workshop of which this volume presents the proceedings took place at Louvain la Neuve in Belgium from November 24 to 26 2011 and was organized by CEMA Centre d'étude des Mondes Antiques one of the research centres within INCAL Institut de Civilisations Arts et Lettres Our aim with organising this gathering was to seriously engage with destruction as a phenomenon and how it is perceived by archaeologists historians and philologists of the ancient world The volume is similarly structured to the workshop which it reflects with first a series of more theoretical papers and then following a chronological and geographical order

British Humanities Index, 2005 Iranian Diaspora Identities Ziba Shirazi, Kamran Afary, 2020-06-15 Iranian Diaspora Identities Stories and Songs combines oral history storytelling theories of communication and performance studies into a unique study of an immigrant community This book is the result of collaborative work between two Iranian American immigrants one a musician and artist and the other a professor Using ethnographic dramatic and oral history approaches Ziba Shirazi gathered these stories of diaspora journeys of Iranians living in California and Toronto in the aftermath of the Islamic Revolution of 1979 The editors transcribed these stories and developed them into short performance pieces that include lyrics and songs and were performed in the United States and Canada to thousands of people in theater venues and libraries These stories constitute a unique archive of the history of contemporary Iranian diaspora experiences They are autobiographic vignettes that have helped constitute an artistic vision of Iranian exiles own sense of community and their migratory experiences that inform the transformations they experienced in family gender and spiritual beliefs In addition to providing an archive of experiences the book uses social drama and storytelling to advocate for a new methodology for documenting Iranian diaspora accounts It constitutes a new contribution to the existing literature on Iranian diaspora and furthers an exciting contribution to scholarship in qualitative research in communication studies Iranian Diaspora Identities Ziba Shirazi, Kamran Afary, 2020-06-15 Iranian Diaspora Identities Stories and Songs combines oral history storytelling theories of communication and performance studies into a unique study of an immigrant community This book is the result of collaborative work between two Iranian American immigrants one a musician and artist and the other a professor Using ethnographic dramatic and oral history approaches Ziba Shirazi gathered these stories of diaspora journeys of Iranians living in California and Toronto in the aftermath of the Islamic Revolution of 1979 The editors transcribed these stories and developed them into short performance pieces that include lyrics and songs and were performed in the United States and Canada to thousands of people in theater venues and libraries These stories constitute a unique archive of the history of contemporary Iranian diaspora experiences They are autobiographic vignettes that have helped constitute an artistic vision of Iranian exiles own sense of community and their migratory experiences that inform the transformations they experienced in family gender and spiritual beliefs In addition to providing an archive of experiences the book uses social drama and storytelling to advocate for a new methodology for documenting Iranian diaspora accounts It constitutes a new contribution to the existing literature on Iranian diaspora and furthers an exciting contribution to scholarship in qualitative research in communication studies Exiled Memories Zohreh Sullivan, 2010-09-23 I feel I am the wandering Jew who has no place to which she belongs I thought I could settle down but can't imagine staying Whenever I bought a bar of soap and two came in the package I thought there would be no need to buy a package of two because I would never last through the second Why Because I knew I was returning to Iran tomorrow So too I would buy the smallest size of toothpastes and jars of oil Putting down roots here is an impossibility These are the words of one Iranian emigre driven from Tehran by the revolution of 1979 They are echoed time and again in this powerful portrayal of loss and survival Impelled by these words and her own concerns about nationality and identity Zohreh Sullivan has gathered together here the voices of sixty exiles and emigres The speakers come from various ethnic and religious backgrounds and range in age from thirteen to eighty eight Although most are from the middle class they work in a variety of occupations in the United States But whatever their differences here they engage in remembering the past producing a discourse about their lives and negotiating the troubled transitions from one culture to another Unlike many other Iranian oral history projects Exiled Memories looks at the reconstruction of memory and identity through diasporic narratives through a focus on the Americas rather than on Iran The narratives included here reveal the complex ways in which events and places transform identities how overnight radicals become conservatives friends become enemies the strong become weak Indeed the narratives themselves serve this function serving to transfer or transform power and establish credibility They reveal a diverse group of people in the process of knitting the story of themselves with the story of the collective after it has been torn apart The Iranian Diaspora Mohsen Mostafavi Mobasher, 2018-10-03 The Iranian revolution of 1978 1979 uprooted and globally dispersed an enormous number of Iranians from all walks of life Bitter political relations between Iran and the West have since caused those immigrants to be stigmatized marginalized and politicized which in turn has discredited and distorted Iranian migrants social identity subjected them to various subtle and overt forms of prejudice discrimination and social injustice and pushed them to the edges of their host societies The Iranian Diaspora presents the first global overview of Iranian migrants experiences since the revolution highlighting the similarities and differences in their experiences of adjustment and integration in North America Europe Australia and the Middle East Written by leading scholars of the Iranian diaspora the original essays in this volume seek to understand and describe how Iranians in diaspora re define and maintain their ethno national identity and re construct and preserve Iranian culture They also explore the integration challenges the Iranian immigrants experience in a very negative context of reception Combining theory and case studies as well as a variety of methodological strategies and disciplinary perspectives the essays offer needed insights into some of the most urgent and consequential issues and problem areas of immigration studies including national ethnic and racial identity construction dual citizenship and dual nationality maintenance familial and religious transformation politics of citizenship integration ethnic and cultural maintenance in diaspora and the link between politics and the integration of immigrants particularly Muslim immigrants Culture Beyond Country Amy Malek, 2025-10-14 Offers an in depth exploration of the Iranian diaspora and the negotiation of belonging With an estimated 5 to 8 million people spread across the globe the Iranian diaspora has become a visible and dynamic cultural presence especially in North America and Europe Faced with shallow or distorted portrayals diasporic Iranians have responded to persistent misrepresentations and marginalization by turning to culture as a deliberate strategy of inclusion Reshaping how their stories are told community organizers artists and entrepreneurs are actively challenging public narratives asserting new cultural imaginaries and navigating the terms of inclusion and exclusion putting new visions of Iranian identity into the public eye Drawing on transnational ethnographic fieldwork and over 125 semi structured interviews conducted over the course of 16 years Culture Beyond Country offers the first comparative ethnography of these cultural strategies of inclusion examining the distinct practices and experiences of Iranians in three key cities of the diaspora Los Angeles Stockholm and Toronto Attending to the institutional and ideological forces that come to bear on Iranian cultural organizers in these three diasporic locations Amy Malek examines how immigrants and their descendants negotiate belonging in response to various and shifting state approaches to cultural citizenship The volume examines how state multicultural policy influences who is empowered to represent Iranian culture how local factors shape expressions of Iranian identity across the diaspora and how these representations are contested within Iranian communities Providing a compelling transnational study of immigrant multiculturalism cultural citizenship and inclusion across the global Iranian diaspora Culture Beyond Country showcases not only how the process of representing Iranian culture in the diaspora generates competing views on what it means to be Iranian but also how competing modes of belonging subvert and reinforce existing power relations across local national and transnational scales

The Literature of the Iranian Diaspora Sanaz Fotouhi, 2015-04-03 The 1979 Revolution in Iran caused the migration of millions of Iranians many of whom wrote and are still writing of their experiences Formed at the junctions of Iranian culture English language and Western cultures this body of work has not only formed a unique literary space offering an insightful reflection of Iranian diasporic experiences and its shifting nature but it has also been making a unique and understudied contribution to World Literatures in English as significant as Indian African and Asian writing in English Sanaz Fotouhi here traces the origins of the emerging body of diasporic Iranian literature in English and uses these origins to examine the socio political position and historical context from which they have emerged Fotouhi brings together introduces and analyses for the first time a significant range of diasporic Iranian writers alongside each other and alongside other diasporic literatures in English While situating this body of work through existing theories such as postcolonialism Fotouhi sheds new light on the role of Iranian literature and culture in Western literature by showing that these writings distinctively reflect experiences unique to the Iranian diaspora. Analysing the relationship between Iranians and their new surroundings by drawing on theories of migration narration and identity Fotouhi examines how the literature borne out of the Iranian diaspora reconstructs, maintains and negotiates their individual and communal identities and reflects today's socio-political realities. This book will be vital for researchers of Middle Eastern literature and its relationship with writings from the West as well as those interested in the cultural history of the Middle East.

Constructing Identity in Iranian-American Self-Narrative M. Blaim, Amnon Sella, 2015-02-11 Shaped by the experiences of the Iranian Revolution Iranian American autobiographers use this chaotic past to tell their current stories in the United States. Wagenknecht analyzes a wide range of such writing and draws new conclusions about migration, exile and life between different and often clashing cultures.

Iranian Diaspora Farhad Mohammadi, 2025-05 Iranian Diaspora: Life and Identity of Iranians Abroad offers a vivid exploration of the Iranian exile experience marked by longing, adaptation and the persistent imprint of Persian heritage. The book investigates the diverse realities of displacement following Iranians scattered across continents and generations, each carrying unique motives and memories, some driven by political upheaval, others by academic or professional aspirations. Rather than a monolithic entity, the Iranian diaspora manifests as a mosaic of interwoven stories reflecting not just historical crises like revolutions or economic shifts but also the personal journeys where identity is shaped and reshaped in response to new circumstances. The narrative immerses readers in the tension between maintaining traditional practices, language, food and customs and navigating the pull of assimilation in unfamiliar environments. Communities, family ties and digital networks serve as vital refuges helping preserve collective memory and nurture evolving identities. The book illuminates the balancing act between cultural retention and adaptation, exploring the pain of nostalgia and the constant negotiation of selfhood amid pressures from both ancestral legacy and new surroundings. It delves into questions about belonging, difference and the forging of new communal myths, all shaped by the unpredictability of diaspora life. A major focus is how Iranians abroad interact with their host societies and with Iran itself. Their engagement evolves, ranging from activism and advocacy to moments of ambivalence as they respond to shifting perceptions of their homeland, coloured by emotions such as affection, alienation and hope. The complexities of this relationship are further enriched by transnational connections, remittances and the ongoing impact of post-revolutionary history. At the same time, external challenges like prejudice, political suspicion and issues of representation complicate these experiences. Interdisciplinary in scope, the book draws from sociology, anthropology, history and cultural studies to create a rich portrait of Iranian life abroad. Scientists, entrepreneurs, artists, students and refugees all contribute to this vibrant tableau, their successes and struggles illuminating persistent themes of misrecognition, marginality and the ache of distance from home. Ultimately, Iranian Diaspora: Life and Identity of Iranians Abroad transcends mere storytelling; it is a reclamation of identity.

and testament to the resilience of Iranian expatriates For scholars policymakers or any curious reader the book provides a nuanced multifaceted perspective on migration globalisation and the enduring significance of heritage making it a vital contribution to understanding the adaptability and resourcefulness of the Iranian people The Power of Iranian
