An Analysis of Teachers' Perceptions of the Impact of the COVID-19 Pandemic on a Texas High School's Career and Technical Education Program Allison Anne Middleton, 2023 The purpose of this study was to examine a north central Texas suburban school district's teacher perceptions of the changes and adaptations that CTE programs experienced during the COVID 19 pandemic in an attempt to identify lessons learned and assess practices borne of the necessity In early 2020 COVID 19 disrupted education and required many changes to educating public school students CTE programs traditionally provide instruction through hands on training and experiential learning The pandemic made this traditional delivery of instruction difficult if not impossible This research involved a phenomenological study investigating the changes that teachers went through in continuing to teach in their CTE programs while students were able to attend in both virtual learning and face to face environments Interviews were conducted and a qualitative data analysis was undertaken to identify specific CTE programmatic challenges perceived by teachers systemic changes in CTE classrooms which have resulted in benefits and disadvantages to student learning and the benefits and disadvantages of support that was given by the school district during this time The research study data analyses revealed teachers received support from their district in the form of time software training and administrative regulations Key themes identified from the research include challenges pedagogical changes and district support The teachers adapted instructional methods to ensure all students received instruction whether in person or through virtual learning modalities Other findings revealed the challenges that teachers faced when attempting to teach students in an experiential manner while following school and health regulations to keep stakeholders as safe as possible

Information gleaned from this study can subsequently be useful to the CTE teachers and administrators in this particular school district when addressing potential future programmatic changes and updates that improve the teaching and learning process Texas Administrative Code (TAC), Title 19, Part II. ,1998 Provides course descriptions knowledge and skills and objectives for Economics with Emphasis on the Free Enterprise System and other economics courses for eight strands Citizenship Economics Geography Government History Culture Social Studies Skills Science Technology and Society Courses Economics Advanced Studies AP Microeconomics AP Macroeconomics International Baccalaureate IB Economics Standard Level IB Economics Higher Level Concurrent Enrollment in College Courses Integrated General Education Catherine M. Wehlburg,2010-04-19 General education has been an essential part of American higher education for a long time Unfortunately it is often seen as something to get out of the way so that the student can go on to take the more important courses within a chosen major This volume changes that perception Topics discussed include Integrated General Education A Brief Look Back Why are Outcomes So Difficult to Achieve Making General Education Matter Structures and Strategies Unifying the Undergraduate Curriculum Through Inquiry Guided Learning University of the Pacific s Bookend Seminars on a Good Society Core Curriculum Revision at TCU How Faculty Created and Are Maintaining the TCU Core Curriculum Creating an Integrative General Education The Bates Experience Building an Integrated Student Learning Outcomes Assessment for General Education Three Case Studies Meaningful General Education Assessment That is Integrated and Transformative Institutions of higher education have a responsibility to develop a meaningful general education curriculum that cultivates qualities of thinking communication and problem solving to name a few of the general education goals that many institutions share What is missing from many institutions though is the concept of integrating general education with the overall educational curriculum If this is done general education courses are no longer something to take quickly so they can be checked off instead they become part of the educational development of the student This integration benefits the student certainly but also the larger society baccalaureate graduates steeped in the liberal arts will become future leaders Having been prepared with a broad knowledge base our current students will be able to think more critically and make good use of information to solve problems that have not yet even been identified This is the 121st volume of the Jossey Bass higher education quarterly report series New Directions for Teaching and Learning which offers a comprehensive range of ideas and techniques for improving college teaching based on the experience of seasoned instructors and the latest findings of educational and psychological researchers Bible Prayer Study Course Kenneth E.
