Touching The World Reference In Autobiography:

Touching the World Paul John Eakin, 1992-04-15 Paul John Eakin's earlier work Fictions in Autobiography is a key text in autobiography studies. In it he proposed that the self that finds expression in autobiography is in fundamental ways a kind of fictive construct a fiction articulated in a fiction. In this new book Eakin turns his attention to what he sees as the defining assumption of autobiography that the story of the self does refer to a world of biographical and historical fact. Here he shows that people write autobiography not in some private realm of the autonomous self but rather in strenuous engagement with the pressures that life in culture entails. In so demonstrating he offers fresh readings of autobiographies by Roland Barthes Nathalie Sarraute William Maxwell Henry James Ronald Fraser Richard Rodriguez Henry Adams Patricia Hampl John Updike James McConkey and Lillian Hellman. In the introduction Eakin makes a case for reopening the file on reference in autobiography and in the first chapter he establishes the complexity of the referential aesthetic of the genre the intricate interplay of fact and fiction in such texts. In subsequent chapters he explores some of the major contexts of reference in autobiography the biographical the social and cultural the historical and finally underlying all the rest the somatic and temporal dimensions of the lived experience of identity. In his discussion of contemporary theories of the self Eakin draws especially on cultural anthropology and developmental psychology.

Ancestral Feeling Renie Chow Choy, 2021-11-30 The language of heritage permeates Scripture encouraging Christians to approach church history like a family history. But the notion of ancestry also constrains the world's Catholics and Protestants to trace their confessional descent from Europe rendering them perpetual latecomers in the historical chain. Ancestral Feeling systematically diagnoses the postcolonial problems generated by an ancestral outlook. But applying critical theories in cultural studies to the study of church history the book experiments with ways that the Western Christian inheritance can awaken the memory of one's own ancestors. Writing a personal reflection on her family's history in British ruled Hong Kong Renie Chow Choy engages autobiographically with England's ecclesiastical art architecture music and literature in order to affirm her attachment to a heritage normally associated with English national identity. For global and immigrant Christians brought into a relationship with English Christianity by colonialism but are bypassed by its history this book makes a bold declaration England's Christian heritage is also our story.

The Autobiography Effect Dennis Schep, 2019-07-24 Since the advent of post structuralism various authors have problematized the modern conception of autobiography by questioning the status of authorship and interrogating the relation between language and reality. Yet even after making autobiography into a theoretical problem many of these authors ended up writing about themselves This paradox stands at the center of this wide ranging study of the form and function of autobiography in the work of authors who have distanced themselves from its modern instantiation Discussing Roland Barthes Jacques Derrida Hélène Cixous and others this book grapples with the question of what it means to write the self when the self is understood as an effect of writing Combining close reading intellectual history and literary theory The Autobiography Effect traces how precisely its theoretically problematic nature made autobiography into a central scene for the negotiation of philosophical positions and anxieties after structuralism

Mediating American Autobiography

Sean Ross Meehan, 2008 The emergence of photography in the mid nineteenth century transformed ideas about how the self and nature could be pictured Although the autobiographical potential of photography seems self evident today Sean Meehan takes us back to the birth of the medium when some of America's preeminent authors began to think about photography's implications for the representation of identity and the nature of autobiographical writing Both photography and autobiography involve a tension between disclosing and concealing their means of production a chemical process for one the writing process for the other Meehan examines how four major authors Ralph Waldo Emerson Henry David Thoreau Frederick Douglass and Walt Whitman were well aware of this tension and explored it in their work By examining the implications of early photography in their writings he shows how each engaged the new visual medium how photography mediated their conceptions of self representation and how their appropriation of photographic thinking created a new kind of autobiography Examining the metonymic nature of photography Meehan explores how the new medium influenced conceptions of visual and verbal representation He intertwines these four writers reflections on photography in Emerson's Representative Men Thoreau's journals Douglass's narratives of slavery and Whitman's Specimen Days with theories of photography as expounded by its inventors and observers from Louis Daguerre and William Talbot in Europe to Oliver Wendell Holmes and Marcus Root in America As the first book to focus on the emergence of this new visual medium during the American Renaissance Mediating American Autobiography shows us what photography means for American literature in general and for the genre most closely linked to it in particular Because the engagement of these writers with photography has been neglected in previous scholarship Meehan's work provocatively bridges the study of two media and illuminates an important aspect of American thought and culture at the dawn of the technological era
