Female Sexuality and the Law Susan S. M. Edwards, 2025-12-01 The treatment of women by the law whether as victims or offenders is based on certain attitudes towards female sexuality that have influenced legal thinking since 1800 The aim of this book originally published in 1981 reissued here with a new preface was to expose and investigate these attitudes and to show how the law has subtly but inexorably been used as an instrument of social control over women and their sexual behaviour The study focuses on the treatment of victims of rape and sexual assault Within the legal process it is the area of discretion which is as important as the actual formal content of the law Why is it that one man may be imprisoned for the daring of a kiss whereas countless others have escaped with fines and admonitions for the most brutal assaults What influence can a woman's personal background material circumstances or mental condition be allowed to have on the case How brutally assaulted does a woman have to be to prove beyond all doubt that she did not secretly desire the assault The scope of the book encompasses law sociology psychoanalysis and medicine and paints a startling picture of the degree of prejudice and masculine interest still woven into the fabric of the law Today it can be read in its historical context From Empire to Europe Geoffrey Owen, 2000 Through an analysis of British industry Owen argues that it has undergone a transformation which has modernized the UK economy He demonstrates the influence of institutions and policies on the industries that are likely to succeed The Politics of Community-making in New Urban India Ritanjan Das, Nilotpāl Kumar, 2023-04-17 This book explores the relationship between the production of new urban spaces and illiberal community making in contemporary India It is based on an ethnographic study in Noida a city at the eastern fringe of the state of Uttar Pradesh bordering national capital Delhi The book demonstrates a flexible planning approach being central to the entrepreneurial turn in India's post liberalisation urbanisation whereby a small scale industrial township is transformed into a real estate driven modern city Its real point of departure however is in the argument that this turn can enable a form of illiberal community making in new cities that are quite different from older metropolises Exclusivist forms of solidarity and symbolic boundary construction stemming from the differences across communities as well as their internal heterogeneities form the crux of this process which is examined in three distinct but often interspersed socio spatial forms planned middle class residential quarters urban villages and migrant squatter colonies The book combines radical geographical conceptualisations of social production of space and neoliberal urbanism with sociological and anthropological approaches to urban community making It will be of interest to researchers in development studies sociology urban studies as well as readers interested in society and politics of contemporary India South Asia Towards International Government J. A. Hobson, 1975 How to Do Public Policy Anke Hassel, Kai Wegrich, 2022-03-15 How to Do Public Policy offers a guide to students and practitioners on how to improve problem solving with policies in a political world It integrates insights from applied policy analysis and studies of the policy process to develop a framework that conceives policy making as structured by two spheres of action the engine room of specialists and experts in government agencies NGOs research organizations etc on the one hand and the political superstructure of politicians key public stakeholders and the public on the other hand Understanding the different logics of the engine room and the superstructure is key for successful policy making The dual structure of policy making provides a perspective on policy analysis interactive policy analysis and policy making actor centred policy making that moves from the focus on individual and specific measures towards understanding and shaping the relation and interaction between policy interventions the institutional context and the stakeholders involved or affected Part I of the book presents the basic analytical concepts needed to understand the policy process and the structures and dynamics involved in it as well as to understand how and why actors behave the way they do and how to engage with different types of actors Part II moves further into the nuts and bolts of policy making including policy design implementation and evaluation Part III introduces and explores three key aspects of the capacity to make good policies engagement with stakeholders the process of policy coordination in a context of interdependence and the role of institutions Justice
