

Financial ball still bouncing

Lamar officials were pleased that the university did not strike out on any requests in the Senate Finance Committee Thursday, but as Vice President Joe McLaughlin said, there is still a long way to go in the budgeting.

Lamar's requests were for the most part granted during the meeting session. The only areas which fell short of the requested amount were in the second year of the biennium for campus security and in a request for a building to faculty salaries.

"The Senate Finance Committee gave the items we are concerned about the same markups as the House Appropriations Committee," Oscar Bailey, vice president for Finance, said. "The only area that wasn't the same way in the second year of campus security."

"The request by Lamar for the first year of the biennium for campus security was $125,178, which the Senate Finance Committee granted. However, for the second year the Committee voted to accept the same amount instead of raising it to the requested total."

"The difference was small, though," Bailey said. "Overall, we were very pleased with the way the requests were reviewed."

The next step in the joint committee which Bailey anticipated will be taking next week. "The House and Senate obviously won't have the same proposals," Bailey said. "So then it goes to the joint committee."

"After the joint committee and both houses pass it, it automatically ends up with the Governor," Bailey estimated it would reach Gov. Dolph Briscoe in about a month.

In the two areas termed most "controversial" by an aide to Sen. Carl Walker of Brown County, where staff has been working with the LUT budget.

First year, 1975, and $20,000 for 1976 for funding the computer facilities. Lamar President Robert Kinschke earlier termed Lamar's computer center as "about 10 to 15 years behind other schools in the state." The Legislative Budget Board had recommended no state funds in this area.

"This money is not to be used to buy a new computer," Bailey said. "We already have one and guess potential that just needs time and money to get the program off the ground. We are using so much of the departmental operating expenses in this area, which is normally funded, that the legislature put it under departmental operating expenses."

In the area of major repairs, the Committee granted $250,000, which was Lamar's request. Principally this is to be used in Engineering. It is estimated by Bailey. The school was also given its full request in salaries for the next biennium.

Lamar, who went to Austin to answer any questions the Committee might have had.

and, "At this point we are pleased, but we have a way to go. The House and the Senate looked at what we had, were very fair requests and they acted very decently on them."

On the outlook for Lamar's requests in the joint committee, Kinschke said he would "bet we got fair treatment because we have a fair budget."

Dr. Kinschke told us, "I want a budget I can defend. On that basis I think we present a very creditable case. All our requests are very justified."

"I also give a lot of credit to the legislature which in Nov. 1, clearly, considered and gave us a fair representative of the state."

"It's the kind of situation where you go into a game knowing you have the best team, the home field and you are well prepared. If everything works, you have a 71 win, 500 career, sometimes that ball takes a funny bounce, but at least you know you've got a good chance."

Increased utility rates force dormitory charges to rise

Lamar University Board of Regents, Thursday, approved an eight per cent, across the board increase in dormitory charges.

Vice President George McLaughlin proposed the increase, blaming the increase in utility rates for the hike.

McLaughlin had spoken to "student leaders" about the increase, and those students felt the hike would not drive students away from campus living.

With two students assigned to each room, the increase would mean a $75 increase in room rates.

Concerned about future rate hikes, several regents wanted to know if future energy conservation would be an alternative to future rate hikes. McLaughlin stated that he would prepare a study on energy conservation.

New anthropology class (un)scheduled

If you're interested in anthropology or archeology, you may have to do a little extra digging in the Fall to uncover a new course being offered in the College of Liberal Arts.

Robert Stahl of the anthropology department explained everything of the enrollment procedure that will be required of those wishing to enroll in Anthropology 120, "People and Cultures: A Study of Man, Africa and Mankind."

It seems the new class was inadvertently left off the Fall schedule, meaning those students interested in taking the course will have to request it by name during registration.

The new class is one of four anthropology area courses being listed under the title "People and Cultures," and, according to Stahl, each of the four classes can be taken during the semester. It is offered for Fall University credit even though the course number will remain 120.

Other courses will include "The North American Indian," "People in Asia," and "People in Europe."

The additional course is being made possible by the increase in departmental personnel proposed for the Fall semester.

Presently Stahl is the only instructor of anthropology here at Lamar but will be joined by an archeologist in September. This will allow a broader range of course material to be offered in both of the social sciences, according to Stahl.

Memorial fund set

A memorial scholarship fund is being established in the name of Dorothy Ray Dugrove, a 21-year old former Lamar student who died in a car accident April 14.

Contributions are being taken for the fund to provide a scholarship to Lamar. Contact Janice Chesser, 1100 East 36, Beaumont, 77705, or Louise Marshall, Office of Admissions and Records, Lamar University, P.O. Box 10000, Beaumont, 77710.

Dugrove was president of the South Park student body and graduated in 1974. She attended Lamar and was a member of Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity.

Dugrove, whose parents are Mr. & Mrs. Ray Dugrove, 1128 Oakview, was killed in Brown, Ark., while on a trip.

She hopes that will give students a reason to go to Lamar that might not get to," said Mrs. Chesser.

CASTING A BALLOT—This student is making his voice heard through his vote in the Spring elections Tuesday.

Cardinal magazine sales start tomorrow

The Spring edition of the Cardinal, Lamar's magazine replacement for the yearbook, will go on sale at the registration desk in the Senior Center Friday morning at 8 a.m.

The price for the second edition of the Cardinal will be one dollar.

The entire magazine was done by students, including photographs, artwork, writing, editing and design.

The 1977 hard cover magazine contains feature articles concerning major happenings on campus and an in-depth look at the people that are making things happen, according to Mark Chesser, editor of the Cardinal.

"The only difference between this magazine and last semester's is that the magazine is more controversial than last year," said Chesser. "Also, there is more emphasis on student involvement and there is more variety, with short feature articles on interesting people at Lamar, sports articles, articles on events of this semester and a feature about Lamar's new president, Bob Kinschke."

The Fall 1976 edition of the Cardinal won top awards from the Texas Intercollegiate Press Association, including a third place in overall newspaper and a first in cartoons.

Mallett finds SSCC treasure

Charles Mallett is $200 richer today thanks to the SSCC Recreation Committee's treasure hunt. Mallett found the treasure yesterday in the reading room of the Senior Center hidden among the pages of the World Book Encyclopedia.

Mallett, resident of Gray Hall, was too much of a detective to wait until the last of the 10 clues were given, she hoped, the treasure on the seventh clue.

Senate sets elections

The Student Government Association (SGA) will meet tomorrow, at 3:30 p.m., in Lord Auditorium of the Gateway Business Building to elect remaining officers and vote on the revised standing rules for the organization.

SGA, 1976 president and secretary-treasurer for 1976-77 will be elected by the Senate at the meeting.

Thursday's meeting will be held in lieu of the regularly scheduled SGA meeting of April 28, and all students, faculty and staff are invited to attend, according to Robert Mart, present SGA vice president.
