Thunder And Silence The Mass Media In Africa:

Thunder and Silence Dhyana Ziegler, Molefi Kete Asante, 1992      Mass Media James B. Martin, 2002 Mass media has become an integral part of the human experience News travels around the world in a split second affecting people in other countries in untold ways Although being on top of the news may be good at least for news junkies mass media also transmits values or the lack thereof condenses complex events and thoughts to simplified sound bites and often ignores the essence of an event or story The selective bibliography gathers the books and magazine literature over the previous ten years while providing access through author title and subject indexes      Press Freedom and Communication in Africa Festus Eribo, William Jong-Ebot, 1997 Recent years have seen considerable growth in the media in Africa with increases in the number of newspapers and radio and television stations At the same time there has been an increase in the number of arrests of journalists and broadcasters and various forms of censorship have been introduced The essays in this volume examine press censorship past and present and bring a fresh perspective to the position of the mass media in the African continent

Newsmaking Cultures in Africa Hayes Mawindi Mabweazara, 2018-06-05 This book contributes to a broadened theorisation of journalism by exploring the intricacies of African journalism and its connections with the material realities that underpin the profession on the continent It pulls together theoretically driven studies that collectively deploy a wide range of evidence to shed some light on newsmaking cultures in Africa the everyday routines defining epistemologies as well as ethical dilemmas The volume digs beneath the standardised and universalised veneer of professionalism to unpack routine practices and normative trends shaped by local factors including the structural conditions of deprivation entrenched political instability and interference pervasive neo patrimonial governance systems and the influences of technological developments These varied and complex circumstances are shown to profoundly shape the foundations of journalism in Africa resulting in routine practices that are both normatively distinct and equally in tune with imported Western journalistic cultures The book thus broadly points to the dialectical nature of news production and the inconsistent and contradictory relationships that characterise news production cultures in Africa      Black/Africana Communication Theory Kehbama Langmia, 2018-05-02 Most Western driven theories do not have a place in Black communicative experience especially in Africa Many scholars interested in articulating and interrogating Black communication scholarship are therefore at the crossroads of either having to use Western driven theory to explain a Black communication dynamic or have to use hypothetical rules to achieve their objectives since they cannot find compelling Black communication theories to use as reference Colonization and the African slave trade brought with it assimilationist tendencies that have dealt a serious blow on the cognition of most Blacks on the continent and abroad As a result their interpersonal as well as in group dialogic communication had witnessed dramatic shifts Black Africana Communication Theory assembles skilled communicologists who propose uniquely Black driven theories that stand the test of time Throughout the volume s fifteen chapters theories including but not limited to Afrocentricity Afro

Cultural Mulatto Venerative Speech Theory Africana Symbolic Contextualism Theory HaramBuntu Government Diaspora Communications Theory Consciencist Communication Theory and Racial Democracy Effect Theory are introduced and discussed

Thunder and Silence Dhyana Ziegler, Molefi Kete Asante, 1992 A critical appraisal of the history problems and prospects of African media

Law of Defamation in Commonwealth Africa Jill Cottrell, 2018-08-17 First published in 1998 this book is an exposition of the law of defamation as it applies in those countries excluding South Africa It discusses or refers to hundreds of cases from those jurisdictions as well as many important precedents from England analysing the law and discussing how far the courts have developed their own approaches to the law and to what extent the law reflects the values of traditional society and customary law It thus shows how the law is being used in a field which is both intensely political and reflects important social interests Though directed mainly at legal practitioners teachers and students therefore it would be of interest to the media the defendants in the overwhelming majority of the cases and to scholars in the social sciences

Mass Media, Freedom, and Democracy in Sierra Leone Bernadette Cole, 1995

Mass Media, Towards the Millennium Arrie De Beer, 1998 The premise of this book was to offer a functional perspective on the basic elements and some of the major issues of mass communication as it pertains to this country

African Journal of Languages and Linguistics, 1996

Development and Communication in Africa Charles Okigbo, Festus Eribo, 2004 Although Africa is the world's poorest continent it is a major emerging market and partner in the global village of the new millennium This book presents a wide array of perspectives on the problems and prospects of developing Africa Leading scholars in African studies and international communication analyze the socio political and cultural experiences in various communities focusing on key questions What is development What are the main issues surrounding development in Africa And how can communication perse be used to address the persistent problems of underdevelopment

Cultural Reflections and the Role of Advertising in the Socio-economic and National Development of Nigeria Emmanuel C. Alozie, 2005 This study focuses on the role of advertising in the process of social mobilization and modernization in Nigeria by examining the cultural reflections the nature and characteristics of the messages and the values and symbols conveyed in Nigerian mass media advertisements In this remarkable study Emmanuel C Alozie has attempted to explore the role of advertising in the national and economic development of Nigeria Examining this role through a combination of quantitative content analysis and critical cultural methods he has pursued a number of basic research questions For example one question asks what proportion of the advertisements in Nigerian mass media is directed to business entities as opposed to ordinary consumers The answer he provides presents an interesting perspective on advertising's role His research also found that most ads were product related and less than a third of the ads were related to service one indication of the relative underdevelopment of the economy Ads also promoted largely nonessential products and services to the tune of 65 per cent developing country like Nigeria the multitiered government agencies would provide a major share of the media advertising In reality only a tiny proportion about

5 per cent actually came from government sources the rest of the advertising was provided by the national and multinational corporations Alozie also found that Nigerian sponsors tend to promote goods of foreign origin over those of Nigerian derivative Overall he found that less than half the products and services advertised 42 per cent were of Nigerian origin with much of the products nonessential in nature Advertising messages with embedded appeals have the potential of manipulating consumers and promoting unproductive consumption habits among consumers in a situation of scarcity Therefore the appeals that are used in the advertising content become an important issue in a developing nation like Nigeria Alozie did not find extensive use of the image youth and sex appeals in the ads so prevalent in the West even though some of these appeals were found to have crept into the content primary selling point In addition emphasis was on savings family and safety for products regardless of whether the ads featured high involvement or low involvement products and services For decades policy makers in the developing world have debated the need for using mass media for human resource moralization by emphasizing developmental themes To what extent Nigerian ads contain developmental themes is a question Alozie explores He finds that some ads do contain developmental themes such as savings self development modernization investment hard work competition etc These themes however appear rather infrequently Financial institutions emphasize developmental themes while manufacturing enterprises do not The author underscores the need for the government to encourage private and public corporations to include developmental themes in their advertising messages to promote individual as well as communal or collective interests messages the author draws some broad conclusions that provide significant insight into Nigeria s prevailing advertising scene For example he concludes that the degree of information on products and services available in the country is inadequate because of low level advertising Even though developmental themes are employed in advertising messages the sparsity of their use is not likely to promote national development Broadcast advertisements are more democratic than those in the print media primarily because they promote products and services more affordable to the average consumer In general consumer products advertised in Nigeria are frequently of foreign origin and therefore they are targeted to the elite who can afford the expensive nonessential products The author recognizes the value and need for advertising that can disseminate not only beneficial information about products and services but can also serve as an effective tool in government s hands to promote information on significant social and developmental issues and policies that will affect the public scholars and researchers have contributed to the sizeable existing literature on development few have examined advertising as a meaningful means of communication for developmental messages and values Through his study Alozie has attempted to fill this void Students and scholars with an interest in the media of developing nations will find the articulation of the various theories concerning socio economic development quite stimulating But more importantly by answering a range of significant questions about the nature and types of advertising messages published or aired in the Nigerian mass media discussing what themes and values they contain and how relevant they are or influence the developmental goals of the nation the author offers a study that is useful insightful and rewarding      Africa Aaron Kudaga Kabweru Mukwaya, George Birungyi, Prisca Tibenderana, 2004      The Information Society and the Black Community John T. Barber, Alice A. Tait, 2001 Does the Information Age promise egalitarianism and democracy or will it simply reinforce long standing social and economic inequalities This collection of essays analyzes the emerging role of African Americans in post industrial society from a variety of communications research perspectives Accepting W J Wilson s theory of a socially and economically isolated African American underclass Barber and Tait ask the logical question what next The Information Society and the Black Community is a critical examination of the prospects and pitfalls of a historically disadvantaged group in a period of rapid technological advances and economic growth Adopting Frank Websters theory of the Information Society as a framework for organization and development the book is divided into five sections that look at technological economic occupational spatial and cultural aspects of the relationship between the African American community and the Information Society Part One analyzes data on African American use of information technology and examines how the new flow of information might effect African American social and cultural images Part Two focuses on African American participation in the ownership and control of information industries Part Three treats professional training and employment patterns affecting African Americans in the Information Age Part Four centers around the potential uses of information technology in solving social political and economic problems Part Five addresses the growing connections of the African American community to Africa and the rest of the world via information technology      Press Freedom and Democracy in Zimbabwe Elin W. Andersen, 1997      Media and Democracy in Zimbabwe, 1931-2001 James Joseph Zaffiro, 2002      Africa ,1997 This indispensable tool provides a breadth and depth of resources for anyone interested in understanding the changing and complex reality that is Africa today To many outside the continent Africa appears to be remote and inaccessible But this doesn t have to be so The print and audiovisual resources gathered together in this directory demonstrate that there are many ways to access this huge and diverse continent      Press and Politics in Africa Ritchard M'Bayo, Chuka Onwumehili, R. Nwafo Nwanko, 2000 This work deals with the relations between public communications and politics in the context of the nation state system in Africa It interweaves theory and practice and begins with an overview that presents a general theoretical model of communication and influence processes in politics      Africa Contemporary Record ,1994
