The Delivery Man By Mark Twain

I sat down again, a-fading all over, for the house was all as still as death now, and so the widow wouldn't know. Well, after a long time I heard the clock, peep off in the lowing boom—boom—boom—twelve o'clock and all still again—still than ever. Pretty soon I heard a bell ring and down in the dark among the trees—something was a-singing. I set off and listened. Dearly I could just barely hear it "me-yow me-yow" down there. That was good! Saw it "me-yow me-yow" as still as I could, and then I put out the light and scambled out of the window on to the shed. Then I stepped down to the ground and crawled in among the trees, and sure enough, there was Tom Sawyer waiting for me.

1. The author uses the simile "as still as death" to illustrate—

- A. a new feeling
- B. the dark night
- ☒ C. the total silence
- D. a feeling of joy

2. What feeling does the author's sensory language create?

- ☒ F. magical

The Emperor's New Suit By Hans Christian Andersen

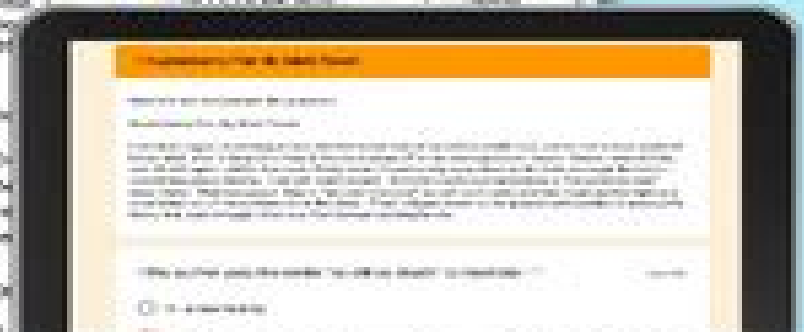

One day two swindlers came to this city. They made people believe that they were weavers and declared they could manufacture the finest cloth to be imagined. Their colors and patterns, they said, were not only extraordinarily beautiful, but the clothes made of their material possessed the wonderful quality of being invisible to any man who was unfit for his office or very stupid. "That must be wonderful cloth," thought the emperor. "If I were to be dressed in a suit made of this cloth, I should be able to find out which men in my empire were unfit for their places, and I could dismiss them from the service."

3. What was the emperor's main concern?

- A. The empire
- B. The empire
- ☒ C. The empire
- D. The empire

4. The reader can infer that the emperor was—

- F. very good

Handbook of Individual Differences in Reading Peter Afflerbach, 2015-08-11 The central unifying theme of this state of the art contribution to research on literacy is its rethinking and reconceptualization of individual differences in reading Previous research focused on cognitive components of reading signaled the need for ongoing work to identify relevant individual differences in reading to determine the relationships of individual differences to reading development and to account for interactions among individual differences Addressing developments in each of these areas this volume also describes affective individual differences and the environments in which individual differences in reading may emerge operate interact and change The scant comprehensive accounting of individual differences in reading is reflected in the nature of reading instruction programs today the outcomes that are expected from successful teaching and learning and the manner in which reading development is assessed An important contribution of this volume is to provide prima facie evidence of the benefits of broad conceptualization of the ways in which readers differ The Handbook of Individual Differences in Reading moves the field forward by encompassing cognitive non cognitive contextual and methodological concerns Its breadth of coverage serves as both a useful summary of the current state of knowledge and a guide for future work in this area
