Myers, 2018 Companies use trademarks to protect their brands from outright imitation or competition by confusingly similar products However publication of trademark filings by the trademark office discloses information about a firm's new product or service This creates a trade off between legal protection and disclosure of information We analyze the trade off through the lens of submarine trademarks in the U S submarine trademarks are trademarks whose publication and hence disclosure to the public is strategically delayed This is achieved through a particular international filing strategy that is often combined with the use of shell companies to further conceal the trademark filing These submarine strategies allow companies to benefit from legal trademark protection while reducing the risk of inadvertent disclosure of information We provide the first systematic evidence of submarine trademarks and explore both their determinants and their effectiveness in reducing the disclosure of information     Fundamentals of Computer - SBPD Publications Er.
