Webster,1986 U.S. News & World Report,2008 Globalisation and Education Reforms Joseph Zajda,2018-02-27 This book explores the interrelationship between ideology the state and education reforms placing it in a global context It examines some of the major education reforms and policy issues in a global culture particularly in light of recent shifts in quality and standards driven education and policy research The book critiques the neo liberal ideological imperatives of current education and policy reforms and illustrates the way the shifts in the relationship between the state and education policy affect current trends in education reforms and schooling globally With this as its focus the book s individual chapters highlight hand picked scholarly research on major discourses in the field of comparative education A compendium of the very latest thinking on the subject the book like the other volumes in the series offers a state of the art sourcebook for researchers practitioners and policymakers alike Not only do the chapters offer a timely overview of current issues affecting comparative education and education policy research in what is now a global educational culture they also outline future directions that education and policy reforms could take By doing so they provide a comprehensive picture of the intersecting and diverse discourses of globalisation and policy driven reforms in education Individual chapters critically assess the dominant discourses and debates on education and policy reforms Using diverse comparative education paradigms from critical theory to historical comparative research they address globalisation ideology and democracy and examine both the reasons for and outcomes of education reforms and policy change As such they provide an informed critique of models of quality and standards driven education reforms that are informed by Western dominant ideologies and social values Implausible Dream James H. Mittelman,2018 Why the paradigm of the world class university is an implausible dream for most institutions of higher education Universities have become major actors on the global stage Yet as they strive to be world class institutions of higher education are shifting away from their core missions of cultivating democratic citizenship fostering critical thinking and safeguarding academic freedom In the contest to raise their national and global profiles universities are embracing a new form of utilitarianism one that favors market power over academic values In this book James Mittelman explains why the world class university is an implausible dream for most institutions and proposes viable alternatives that can help universities thrive in today s competitive global environment Mittelman traces how the scale reach and impact of higher education institutions expanded exponentially in the post World War II era and how the market led educational model became widespread Drawing on his own groundbreaking fieldwork he offers three case studies the United States which exemplifies market oriented educational globalization Finland representative of the strong public sphere and Uganda a postcolonial country with a historically public but now increasingly private university system Mittelman shows that the world class paradigm is untenable for all but a small group of wealthy research intensive universities primarily in the global North Nevertheless institutions without substantial material resources and in far different contexts continue to aspire to world class stature An urgent wake up call Implausible Dream argues that universities are repurposing at the peril of their high principles and recommends structural reforms that are more practical than the unrealistic worldwide measures of excellence prevalent today U S NEWS ULTIMATE COLLEGE DIRECTORY 2004 MCGRATH ANNE (EDITOR),2003 city that is in us and around us     Virtual University? Henk van der Molen,2001 Higher education institutions around the world are experimenting with many different types of virtual learning environments This book argues that information and communication technologies will have a major impact on teaching and learning and universities should have a strategy to meet this change It posits that institutions and individuals will not be able to individually obtain the best advantages from these new technologies that there is need for specialization and cooperation Experiences with Internet learning indicate that students as well as teachers have to accept patterns quite different from the traditional teaching learning pattern Traditional university staff may resist these changes but institutions which do not adjust to the new opportunities are likely to shrink or even disappear     Trusteeship ,2002     Four-Year Colleges 2009 Peterson's,2008-06 Complete and up to date information on academics faculty research tuition sports and campus life at four year colleges in the U S and Canada
