Parents' Involvement in Education Obiefuna J. Onwughalu,2011-07-16 The Igbo community in Chicago is a newer immigrant community compared to the German Polish Italian or Irish communities Just as for these older immigrant communities education is essential for Igbo immigrants who have come to start a new life in the United States Adapting well and thriving in the new environment requires immigrants to tread the path of education The number of Igbo children and other such immigrants is increasing The way they are educated is important not only to the individual child but also to society Igbo children are enrolled in both public and private schools in the Chicago metropolitan area Ka umu anyi wee karia anyi So that our children will be more successful than us is one of the many reasons Igbo families in Chicago are involved in the education of their children Education of children occurs in the home the school and the community This study seeks to understand the nature of parental engagement of Igbo families in Chicago in the education of their children Not all immigrants are the same Knowing about Igbo experiences will enable scholars and educators to recognize both similarities with and differences from other immigrant communities It is immaterial whether their kind of involvement fits the prescribed or standardized form of parental involvement in the literature or in practice elsewhere The crucial question is given their circumstances are Igbo parents perceptions and practices of parental involvement promoting the education of their children in Chicago

For the Family? Sarah Damaske,2011-08-01 In the contentious debate about women and work conventional wisdom holds that middle class women can decide if they work while working class women need to work Yet even after the recent economic crisis middle class women are more likely to work than working class women Sarah Damaske deflates the myth that financial needs dictate if women work revealing that financial resources make it easier for women to remain at work and not easier to leave it Departing from mainstream research Damaske finds three main employment patterns steady pulled back and interrupted She discovers that middle class women are more likely to remain steadily at work and working class women more likely to experience multiple bouts of unemployment She argues that the public debate is wrongly centered on need because women respond to pressure to be selfless mothers and emphasize family need as the reason for their work choices Whether the decision is to stay home or go to work women from all classes say work decisions are made for their families In For the Family Sarah Damaske at last provides a far more nuanced and richer picture of women work and class than the one commonly drawn Journal of Marketing ,2006 Apr issues for 1940 42 include Papers and proceedings of the semi annual Dec meeting of the American Marketing Association 1939 41
