

DRONE

The enormous Army Drone serves two entirely important roles for the Beavis. Originally, very isolation acculturated Drone from the gathering areas of Beavetown to develop an efficient, efficient worker for the job of gathering resources for the Isolates. But much like the ping-pong larva, the Drone had ancestors that were so close and adaptable that the Drone became the generic name—the biological starting point—for all Army Isolator structures.

A Drone can instantly serve the Beavis's industrial expansion by adapting to sacrificing its own body to the mutation of new colony origins—when we call "hatchlings." Hatchlings represent a remarkably strong and durable bonding substance (called "Th-5801" by Isolates) acculturated from the corporeal bulk of all Drone mutation. The Drone's newly welded chassis components create a tracheal template that frames each structure as it rapidly mutates into final form.
