Constructing Science Deena Skolnick Weisberg, David M. Sobel, 2022-09-20 An examination of children's causal reasoning capacities and how those capacities serve as the foundation of their scientific thinking. Young children have remarkable capacities for causal reasoning which are part of the foundation of their scientific thinking abilities. In Constructing Science Deena Weisberg and David Sobel trace the ways that young children's sophisticated causal reasoning abilities combine with other cognitive, metacognitive, and social factors to develop into a more mature set of scientific thinking abilities. Conceptualizing scientific thinking as the suite of skills that allows people to generate hypotheses, solve problems, and explain aspects of the world, Weisberg and Sobel argue that understanding how this capacity develops can offer insights into how we can become a more scientifically literate society. Investigating the development of causal reasoning and how it sets the stage for scientific thinking in the elementary school years and beyond, Weisberg and Sobel outline a framework for understanding how children represent and learn causal knowledge and identify key variables that differ between causal reasoning and scientific thinking. They present empirical studies suggesting ways to bridge the gap between causal reasoning and scientific thinking, focusing on two factors: contextualization and metacognitive thinking abilities. Finally, they examine children's explicit understanding of such concepts as science learning, play, and teaching.

Options for Combining the Navy's and the Coast Guard's Small Combatant Programs Eric Jackson Labs, United States. Congressional Budget Office, 2009 As part of their long term procurement strategies the Navy and the Coast Guard are each in the process of developing and building two types of small combatants The Navy is building two versions of its new littoral combat ship and the Coast Guard is building replacements for its existing classes of high endurance cutters and medium endurance cutters Although all four types of ship are about the same size they are designed to perform different missions If the Navy's and Coast Guard's plans for their small combatant programs are fully implemented the two services combined will spend over 47 billion over the next 20 years purchasing 83 of those ships In light of the many pressures on the budgets of the Navy and the Coast Guard some policymakers and analysts have questioned whether the services could combine their small combatant programs in ways that still meet their requirements but save money This Congressional Budget Office CBO paper prepared at the request of the Ranking Member of the Senate Budget Committee examines three alternatives that might allow the Navy and the Coast Guard to consolidate their small combatant programs Preface
