The diagram illustrates the Japanese market structure in the 1990s. It features a central vertical line representing the Ministry of Economy, Trade and Industry (METI). To the left of this line is the Japan Productivity Center (JPC), and to the right is the Japan Economic Federation (JEF). A horizontal line connects the JPC and JEF, with a vertical line descending from this connection to the central METI line. This structure represents the interconnected nature of these organizations within the Japanese economy.
