As paper recedes into the background and digital data becomes the primary resource in the information society what does this mean for privacy Can there be privacy when every communication made through ever developing ubiquitous devices is recorded Data protection legislation developed as a reply to large scale centralised databases which contained incorrect data and where data controllers denied access and refused to remedy information flaws Some decades later the technical world is very different one and whilst data protection remains important the cries for more privacy oriented regulation in commerce
