The Architecture of Home in Cairo Mohamed Gamal Abdelmonem, 2016-03-03 The hawari of Cairo narrow non straight alleyways are the basic urban units that have formed the medieval city since its foundation back in 969 AD Until early in the C20th they made up the primary urban divisions of the city and were residential in nature Contemporary hawari by contrast are increasingly dominated by commercial and industrial activity This medieval urban maze of extremely short broken zigzag streets and dead ends are defensible territories powerful institutions and important social systems While the hawari have been studied as an exemplar for urban structure of medieval Islamic urbanism and as individual building typologies this book is the first to examine in detail the socio spatial practice of the architecture of home in the city It investigates how people live communicate and relate to each other within their houses or shared spaces of the alleys and in doing so to uncover several new socio spatial dimensions and meanings in this architectural form In an attempt to re establish the link between architecture past and present and to understand the changing social needs of communities this book uncovers the notion of home as central to understand architecture in such a city with long history as Cairo It firstly describes the historical development of the domestic spaces indoor and outdoor and provides an inclusive analysis of spaces of everyday activities in the hawari of old Cairo It then broadens its analysis to other parts of the city highlighting different customs and representations of home in the city at large Cairo in the context of this book is represented as the most sophisticated urban centre in the Middle East with different and sometimes contrasting approaches to the architecture of home as a practice and spatial system In order to analyse the complexity and interconnectedness of the components and elements of the hawari as a collective home it layers its narratives of architectural and social developments as a domestic environment over the past two hundred years and in doing so explores the in depth social meaning and performance of spaces both private and public

Unplanned Visitors Olivier Vallerand, 2022-03-30 Sexuality and gender have long been influential in understanding the construction of domestic space its meanings often revealing a binary division of private and public female and male By reconstructing the foundation of queer critiques of space and by analyzing the representation of domesticity in contemporary art and architecture Unplanned Visitors shows the blurring of private and public that can occur in any domestic space and explores the potential of queer theory for understanding and designing the built environment Olivier Vallerand investigates how queer critiques building on pioneering feminist work question the relation between identity and architecture and highlight normative constructs underlying domestic spaces He draws out a genealogy of queer space in theoretical discourse in architecture studying projects by Mark Robbins Joel Sanders J Mayer H Elmgreen Dragset Andr s Jaque and MYCKET among others These works blur the traditional borders between architecture and art to emphasize the tensions between private and public and their impact on assumptions about domestic space and family structure The challenges in moving from experimental installations to built environments suggest how designers must acknowledge and respond to the social contexts that shape architecture rethinking how domestic spaces can be designed to allow everyone to better manage the expression of their self identification through their living environments Unplanned Visitors poses a challenge to traditional architectural theory and history but also suggests a renewed and more inclusive ethics whereby designers explicitly address social and political power structures The potential of a queer approach to architectural design history theory and education is precisely to enact a method that creates more inclusive buildings and safer neighbourhoods for everyone

The Emergence of the Interior Charles Rice,2006-11-22 Taking a radical position counter to many previous histories and theories of the interior domesticity and the home The Emergence of the Interior considers how the concept and experience of the domestic interior have been formed from the beginning of the nineteenth century It considers the interior s emergence in relation to the thinking of Walter Benjamin and Sigmund Freud and through case studies in architecture s trajectories toward modernism The book argues that the interior emerged with a sense of doubleness being understood and experienced as both a spatial and an image based condition Incorporating perspectives from architecture critical history and theory and psychoanalysis The Emergence of the Interior will be of interest to academics and students of the history and theory of architecture and design social history and cultural studies
