Stealing Home A Novel:

Stealing Home Philip F. O'Connor, 1979 Benjamin and Marilyn Dunne Bobo Annie Suzie Here in this tremendously moving novel is an American family today riding out a kind of crisis of feelings and identity that is particular to our time. We see them the Dunnes through the eyes of the young husband Benjamin in his mid thirties whose apparently solid and agreeable life is beginning to unravel. His marriage is coming apart. His wife Marilyn suddenly and deeply wants more than her days contain. His twelve year old boy is becoming unbearably sullen. You talk to Bobo and he puts his fingers in his ears. Benjamin's own emotional vertigo is turning him toward another woman. What happens as he tries to pull his life together is told in the dramatic, fresh and beautifully rendered context of a half pint baseball season. Benjamin trying to contain his anger at his infuriating twelve year old volunteers to coach the team on which Bobo plays. Bobo's response: Trade me. The other kids catch his hostility. And Benjamin even while coping with all the adult nonsense and intrigue that surround small fry baseball leagues finds himself obsessively determined to win to win the respect of the team to win Bobo to win games. To win back his own slipping command of himself and his life. As the summer progresses the small and the large dramas intermingle and reflect each other. The daily suspense of the ball field that miniature yet altogether serious world of contest and passion is both part of and emblem of the larger suspense the turbulence the conflict the striving that takes place within Benjamin as he tries to resolve his panics and confusions. What will be his relationship with his wife he thinks they belong together but do they with the woman who in his bad time has given him wine and cheese and cheerfulness and taken him into her bed what does he owe her with his children and with himself.

Stealing Home Grace Reilly, 2024-02-07 USA Today Bestseller A can't miss BookTok favorite reverse grumpy sunshine forced proximity college sports romance third in the Beyond the Play series with new exclusive content in this edition. I should be focusing on my game not on falling for my gorgeous grumpy roommate especially since she's already left me once. Sebastian It's my final season to prove myself before the MLB draft. The last thing I need is a distraction and especially not one as tantalizing as Mia di Angelo. She's the drop dead gorgeous astrophysicist in training who ditched me the moment I wanted to take us from casual to committed. Yeah. Ouch. But when she needs somewhere to stay for the summer well I offer her my place. Being roommates shouldn't be so hard. Not distracting at all. Not the least bit challenging. Mia I have two goals this summer: get into a study abroad program and get over golden baseball god Sebastian Miller Callahan. Doesn't mean it's easy to stop thinking about him but he deserves better than a prickly career focused girl like me. Our futures can't be more different. The last thing I need is to play roommates with the only man who can set my body ablaze. And all the feelings I've tried to pretend I never had. They come rushing back far too strong for either of us to ignore.
