design methodology presented in this manual for continuous span composite bridges is extremely complex To simplify the procedure a spreadsheet has been developed for use by practicing engineers This design aid greatly simplifies the design of a strengthening system for a given bridge in that it eliminates numerous tedious hand calculations computes the required force and moment fractions and performs the necessary iterations for determining the required strengthening forces The force and moment distribution fraction formulas developed in this manual are primarily for the Iowa DOT V12 and V14 three span four stringer bridges These formulas may be used on other bridges if they are within the limits stated in this manual Use of the distribution fraction formulas for bridges not within the stated limits is not recommended Handbook of Steel
