Young Single Homeless:

Young Single Homeless Rachel Cumming, 2014-07-21 This book is centred around a hostel for young homeless people. It tells the stories of several of the residents namely Angela Trevor and Lee their backgrounds characters and how they come to be living in their teenage years at a hostel for the homeless. It leads the reader into their view of the world through their eyes and reasoning it portrays the day to day workings of the hostel gives insights into the lives of the residents and illustrates the stresses and strains that the staff working there endure. As well as the residents the book focuses on the characters of two staff members Joe a Project Worker and his Manager Fiona. The book traces through past and present day and through the culmination of events leads Joe down a dangerous path towards the unseen world of social deprivation and crime and to agonising over social and moral dilemmas. This book could be described as bitter sweet. It is humorous in places yet is a touching story which by its subject matter cannot help treading on thorny political and social issues such as youth homelessness child abuse and crime. This book although fictional has been inspired by real events and true characters. To protect confidentiality names have been changed and composite characters produced rather than portraits. There is no mention of the Town Housing Association or the hostel itself. This book is not about people living on the streets but more about the individual lives of the residents and the circumstances that lead them to become homeless. Building Young Lives Danny Levine, Steve Platt, 1989 Housing and Homelessness Sophie Watson, 2025-11-18 Houses do not simply represent a form of shelter in addition they embody the dominant ideology of a society and reflect the way in which that society is organised. Originally published in 1986 and written by two leading authorities on the subject this book tackles the problems of housing homelessness and women in the family from a feminist perspective. It explores how housing helps to reproduce women's role within the family both today and historically. It looks at the way British society in particular and western society in general defines and creates housing needs. It discusses the way housing is provided and allocated to exclude specific forms of household and describes the experiences of a particular group single women upon whom these processes have profound impact. Making effective use of interview material the authors analyse the experience and needs of women without secure accommodation. Their study will be a useful text on social policy and welfare courses and with its strong political implications will also be of great interest to community workers and to local authority housing departments.

Housing and Social Policy Peter Somerville, Nigel Spriggs, 2005 The chapters in this book each consider a specific social category such as class gender or disability and evaluate the experience and understanding of housing and social policy under these categories. Needs and Provision for Young Single Homeless People Sarah Waugh, 1976 Youth Homelessness Susan Hutson, Mark Liddiard, 1994-08-24 Drawing on a broad range of international studies this book looks in detail at how youth homelessness is variously defined measured and explained as well as discussing the solutions which are usually proposed for it. Yet this book is more than simply a description of youth homelessness. It uses original material to show how youth homelessness like other issues can be differently presented by agencies the media academics politicians and by those directly affected in this case young homeless people themselves Housing Vulnerable Young Single Homeless People
