Zarina Paper Like Skin:

Zarina Allegra Pesenti, 2012 Zarina Hashmi's main working medium is paper which she employs in woodcuts etchings drawings rubbings and casts made from paper pulp This volume places Zarina's work within a tradition of the use and fabrication of paper on the Indian subcontinent Art and Feminisms Erin Silver, 2026-01-30 Through an international cohort of contributors this book examines the rich and diverse strands of artistic and cultural production from the nineteenth century to the present day that contribute to elastic and ever expanding histories of feminist art The contributions facilitate an understanding of the complex histories of feminist art material and cultural production for both new and inveterate students and scholars while complicating feminist art's canonization by engaging questions and issues of history writing itself An implicit concern throughout the volume is how feminist art history has both addressed and at times been complicit in its own systems of exclusion Foregrounding political and social movements and developments in related fields such as critical race studies Indigenous studies trans studies disability studies and critical ethnic studies in recent decades this volume looks beyond the canonical lineage of feminist art history toward an expansive view of feminist art's pasts pitfalls and potentials The book also goes beyond the traditional visual arts to consider vernacular and material cultures in our increasingly visually oriented world which encompasses the social media and citizen journalism accelerated in the COVID era The book will be of interest to scholars and students working in art history and gender studies The Oxford Handbook of American Islam

Yvonne Y. Haddad, Jane I. Smith, 2014-11-03 Islam has been part of the increasingly complex American religious scene for well over a century and was brought into more dramatic focus by the attacks of September 11 2001 American Islam is practiced by a unique blend of immigrants and American born Muslims The immigrants have come from all corners of the world they include rich and poor well educated and illiterate those from upper and lower classes as well as economic and political refugees The community's diversity has been enhanced by the conversion of African Americans Latinos and others making it the most heterogeneous Muslim community in the world With an up to the minute analysis by thirty of the top scholars in the field this handbook covers the growth of Islam in America from the earliest Muslims to set foot on American soil to the current wave of Islamophobia Topics covered include the development of African American Islam pre and post WWII immigrants Sunni Shi'ite sectarian and Sufi movements in America the role and status of women marriage and family and the Americanization of Islamic culture Throughout these chapters the contributors explore the meaning of religious identity in the context of race ethnicity gender and politics both within the American Islamic community and in relation to international Islam American Art in Asia Michelle Lim, Kyunghye Pyun, 2022-05-05 This book challenges existing notions of what is American and or Asian art moving beyond the identity issues that have dominated art world conversations of the 1980s and the 1990s and aligning with new trends and issues in contemporary art today e.g. the Global South labor environment and gender identity Contributors examine both historical and contemporary instances in art practices and

Radio for the Millions Isabel Huacuja Alonso, 2023-01-03 Co winner 2023 AIPS Book Prize American Institute of Pakistan Studies Finalist 2023 Richard Wall Memorial Award Theatre Library Association

From news about World War II to the broadcasting of music from popular movies radio played a crucial role in an increasingly divided South Asia for more than half a century Radio for the Millions examines the history of Hindi Urdu radio during the height of its popularity from the 1930s to the 1980s showing how it created transnational communities of listeners Isabel Huacuja Alonso argues that despite British Indian and Pakistani politicians efforts to usurp the medium for state purposes radio largely escaped their grasp She demonstrates that the medium enabled listeners and broadcasters to resist the cultural linguistic and political agendas of the British colonial administration and the subsequent independent Indian and Pakistani governments Rather than being merely a tool of nation building in South Asia radio created affective links that defied state agendas policies and borders It forged an enduring transnational soundscape even after the 1947 Partition had made a united India a political impossibility Huacuja Alonso traces how people engaged with radio across news music and drama broadcasts arguing for a more expansive definition of what it means to listen She develops the concept of radio resonance to understand how radio relied on circuits of oral communication such as rumor and gossip and to account for the affective bonds this talk created By analyzing Hindi film song radio programs she demonstrates how radio spurred new ways of listening to cinema Drawing on a rich collection of sources including newly recovered recordings listeners letters to radio stations original interviews with broadcasters and archival documents from across three continents Radio for the Millions rethinks assumptions about how the medium connects with audiences
