of no mind a state beyond thought emotions and expectations Work that is produced through conscious effort is ultimately devoid of life Zen calligraphy in particular must spring from shonen sozoku a Buddhist term equivalent to true thought Shonen is a state of full concentration that is devoid of thoughts and ideas while sozoku here means free flowing continuity Greatness in brushwork cannot be achieved through conscious effort it is only achieved through the states of mu shin and shonen sozoku or no mind and a continuous state free of the thoughts and ideas that distract the mind Zen calligraphy differs from other calligraphic disciplines as it is focused on the realization of no mind Furthermore in contrast to sho which uses Chinese characters as a basis it is the expression of Zen through a brush whether the result is a single stroke a Zen circle or an ink painting While sho is restricted to brushed writing Zen calligraphy extends to other forms of brushwork Nearly all calligraphy today is born of conscious attention to an aesthetic concept but we rarely find lines that are truly alive In contrast the calligraphy of Zen masters such as Daito Kokushi 1282-1337 founder of Daitokuji temple in Kyoto or Ikkyu Sojun 1394-1481 resonates with the energy of no mind achieved through complete concentration In these works the lines are filled with vitality and the shapes are fresh and original Sen no Rikyu 1522-91 who established many of the basic precepts of the tea ceremony held that nothing surpassed Zen calligraphy as a subject for display in the alcove of the tea room He undoubtedly felt that only art works that reflect the eternal vitality of Zen writings could encourage the mind toward enlightenment Rikyu recognized that calligraphy necessarily demands the highest level of spirituality A line that manifests clarity cannot be drawn if the heart is clouded by worldly concerns a stroke cannot be brushed with resolution if the heart is agitated and calligraphy that reveals depth cannot be produced if cultivation and experience are shallow To write kanji characters that resonate and demonstrate their deeper meaning one's own mind must achieve unity with the meaning of the words a requirement that calls for a higher level of spirituality The calligrapher therefore must strive for the state of no mind through meditation and contemplation

The Art of Budo John Stevens, 2022-12-06 Explore this stunning collection of spiritual calligraphy by Japan's greatest martial arts masters with commentary from Zen art authority and aikido master John Stevens Beginning with the legendary samurai Miyamoto Musashi nearly all of the great martial arts masters left a legacy of calligraphy and painting Their artwork Zenga and Zensho Zen pictures and Zen calligraphy was not only an extension of their Zen practice but also reflected their deep spiritual commitment to the budo ethos the perfection of self through martial arts training This book presents a concise history of this tradition with works from such samurai as Musashi Takuan Yagyu Motusgai Rengetsu Tesshu Deishu Kano Morihei and others Aikido master John Stevens is an expert on Zen and budo art and he provides a fascinating introduction to the tradition and biographical details on each of the warrior artists and brief illuminating commentary on each piece

Meditation—The Complete Guide Patricia Monaghan, Eleanor Viereck, 2011 A revised guide to positive transformation through meditation profiles 35 diverse practices from different world regions while explaining their respective histories and virtues in a resource that includes coverage of options ranging from drumming and trance dancing to labyrinth walking and gardening Original Meditating Selflessly James H. Austin, 2011 This is not the usual kind of self help book Indeed its major premise heeds a Zen master's advice to be less self centered Yes it is one more book of words about Zen as the author concedes yet this book explains meditative practices from the perspective of a neural Zen The latest findings in brain research inform its suggestions In Meditating Selflessly James Austin Zen practitioner neurologist and author of three acclaimed books on Zen and neuroscience guides readers toward that open awareness already awaiting them on the cushion and in the natural world Austin offers concrete advice often in a simplified question and answer format about different ways to meditate He clarifies both the concentrative and receptive styles of meditation Having emphasized that top down and bottom up forms of attention are complementary he then explains how long term meditators can become increasingly selfless when they cultivate both styles of attention in a balanced manner This Austin explains is because our networks of attention are normally engaged in an inverse reciprocal seesaw relationship with the different regions that represent our autobiographical self Drawing widely from the exciting new field of contemplative neuroscience Austin helps resolve an ancient paradox why both insight wisdom and selflessness arise simultaneously during enlightened states of consciousness

Spiritual Art and Art Education Janis Lander, 2013-12-17 This book is a study of contemporary spirituality as it is practiced in the world today characterized by its secular and inclusive nature and applied to art and art education It identifies the issues facing a formal introduction of contemporary spiritual concepts into a secular and multicultural arts educational environment Lander begins by separating the notion of the spiritual from the study of organized religions She uses examples of art from different cultures in contemporary spiritual systems making the study a reference book for contemporary spirituality and spirituality in art education with usable definitions and practical examples suitable for scholars in art and visual studies art education and contemporary spirituality

Stillness of Space and Line William Welton, 2010-05-29 The Stillness of Space and Line is a collection of images inspired by early Chinese painting Discover the quiet stillness within each image The lines arise from the empty space and remain part of the connection to the presence of the moment The space is the yin and the line is the yang energy Use the Stillness of Space and Line as a visual Meditation Guide There are no distractions to the flow of energy The images are timeless and alive with presence
