Pandey, 2017-03-07 In a democratic political system the media is often entrusted with the responsibility of guarding the rights of the people As such it is essential to critically look at its role and functions in our present socio political context This book represents a comprehensive analysis of the following core issues the role of the media in educating protecting and promoting human rights the challenges facing the media and human rights human rights reporting and coverage and the media's role during violations of human rights especially with regards to women The book also contains suggestions and measures to increase awareness on human rights Furthermore it discusses the existing discourse of human rights and the media in India Nepal and Bangladesh Children and Media in India Shakuntala Banaji, 2017-05-18 Is the bicycle like the loudspeaker a medium of communication in India Do Indian children need trade unions as much as they need schools What would you do with a mobile phone if all your friends were playing tag in the rain or watching Indian Idol Children and Media in India illuminates the experiences practices and contexts in which children and young people in diverse locations across India encounter make or make meaning from media in the course of their everyday lives From textbooks television film and comics to mobile phones and digital games this book examines the media available to different socioeconomic groups of children in India and their articulation with everyday cultures and routines An authoritative overview of theories and discussions about childhood agency social class caste and gender in India is followed by an analysis of films and television representations of childhood informed by qualitative interview data collected between 2005 and 2015 in urban small town and rural contexts with children aged nine to 17 The analysis uncovers and challenges widely held assumptions about the relationships among factors including sociocultural location media content and technologies and children's labour and agency The analysis casts doubt on undifferentiated claims about how new technologies affect endanger and or empower pointing instead to the importance of social class and caste in mediating relationships among children young people and the poor The analysis of children's narratives of daily work education caring and leisure supports the conclusion that although unrecognised and underrepresented subaltern children's agency and resourceful conservation makes a significant contribution to economic interpretive and social reproduction in India The Handbook of Global Media Research Ingrid Volkmer, 2015-07-07 The

Handbook of Global Media Research Ingrid Volkmer has collected an admirably rich thought provoking and diverse collection of views to guide critical scholarship as our topic the media and media cultures methods which must now be comparative and the knowledge we produce are all transformed by globalization Sonia Livingstone author of Media Regulation Governance and the Interests of Citizens and Consumers In this handbook leading academic and practitioner analysts give us valuable insight into globalized forms of communication their diversity the global local dialectic and the challenges of critical historical and comparative study of transnational media and communication Robin Mansell author of Imagining the Internet Communication Innovation and Governance With a stellar list of contributors and an engagement with the global that both traces and transcends its boundaries Ingrid Volkmer's volume is the cardinal chart of our media worlds Mark Deuze author of Media Life and Media Works This is a long overdue volume The distinguished contributors to The Handbook of Global Media Research have produced a challenging and authoritative guide to understanding the latest developments in global media Thomas R Lindlof University of Kentucky As new forms of media proliferate and communication becomes ever more global transnational media is increasingly capable of both enhancing political cultural and economic globalization and shaping worldviews and civic identity Research into the development of transnational media is therefore an essential element of understanding the changes created by advanced globalization The Handbook of Global Media Research explores and articulates the key themes and competing approaches of this dynamic and developing field Bringing together the ideas of more than 40 internationally respected authors from around the world it provides valuable and varied insights into a globalized media landscape setting the agenda for the future of transnational media and communications research

Methodological Approaches in Kurdish Studies Bahar Baser, Yasin Duman, Mari Toivanen, Begum Zorlu, 2018-11-06 This edited volume presents thirteen contributions that reflect upon the practical ethical theoretical and methodological challenges that researchers face when conducting fieldwork in settings that are characterized with deteriorating security situations increasing state control and conflicting inter ethnic relations More precisely they shed light to the intricacies of conducting fieldwork on highly politicized and sensitive topics in the region of Kurdistan in Iraq Syria and Turkey as well as among Kurdish diaspora members in Europe This volume is multidisciplinary in its focus and approach It includes contributions from scholars from various disciplinary backgrounds ranging from sociology and political science to social psychology and anthropology The complexity of security situations and the atmospheres of distrust and suspicion have led the contributors to be creative and to adapt their research methods in ways that at times transcend disciplinary boundaries and conventions Relatedly the contributions also open the often considered Pandora's box of discussing the failures in what is often a messy research field and how to adopt one's methods to rapidly changing political circumstances This necessitates greater reflexivity in existing power relations of the surrounding context and how those affect not only the interaction situations between the researcher and the participants but also raise questions for the overall research process concerning namely social justice representation and knowledge production The contributions unravel this by unpacking positionalities beyond ethnicities discussing how gendered and other positionalities are constructed in fieldwork interactions and by illustrating how the surrounding structures of power and dominance are present in every day fieldwork. What differentiates this book from the existing literature is that it is the first academic endeavor that solely focuses on methodological reflections aimed to the field of Kurdish Studies. It offers a comprehensive and multidisciplinary account of scholars' fieldwork experiences in the Kurdish regions and as such it is also of value to scholars conducting or about to conduct fieldwork in conflict regions elsewhere.

German Rocketeers in the Heart of Dixie Monique Laney, 2015-01-01. This thought provoking study by historian Monique Laney focuses on the U.S. government assisted integration of German rocket specialists and their families into a small southern community at the end of World War II. In 1950 Wernher von Braun and his team of rocket experts relocated to Huntsville, Alabama, a town that would celebrate the team despite their essential role in the Nazi war effort a decade earlier for their contributions to the U.S. Army missile program and later to NASA's space program. Based on oral histories provided by members of the African American and Jewish communities, the rocketeers' families and co-workers, friends and neighbors, Laney's book demonstrates how the histories of German Nazism and Jim Crow in the American South intertwine in narratives about the past. This is a critical reassessment of a singular time that links the Cold War, the Space Race and the Civil Rights era while addressing important issues of transnational science and technology and asking Americans to consider their country's own history of racism when reflecting on the Nazi past.

MLA International Bibliography of Books and Articles on the Modern Languages and Literatures, 2008. Digital Diasporas Radhika Gajjala, 2019-06-26. When we work or play through digital technologies we also live in them. Communities form, conversations and social movements emerge spontaneously and through careful offline planning. While we have used disembodied communication and transportation technologies in the past and still do, we have never before actually synchronously inhabited these communicative spaces, routes and networks in quite the way we do now. Digital Diasporas engages conversations across a selection of contemporary, gendered Indian identified networks online. Desis creating place through labour and affective network formation in secondlife, Indian diasporic women engaged in digital domesticity, to Indian digital feminists engaged in debate and dialogue through Twitter. Through particular conversations and ethnographic journeys and linking back to personal and South Asian histories of Internet mediation, Gajjala and her co-authors reveal how affect and gendered digital labour combine in the formation of global socio-economic environment.

Cyber Selves Radhika Gajjala, 2004-11-23. In her new book, Gajjala examines online community formations and subjectivities that are produced at the intersection of technologies and globalization. She describes the process of designing and building cyberfeminist webs for South Asian women's communities, the generation of feminist cyber auto-ethnographies and offers a third world critique of cyberfeminism. She ultimately views virtual communities as imbedded in real life communities and contexts with human costs. The online discussions are visible textual records of the discourses that circulate within real life communities. Her methodology involves a form of cyberethnography which explores the dialogic and disruptive possibilities of the virtual medium and of hypertext Gajjala s work addresses the political economic and cultural ramifications of the Internet communication explosion This book will be a valuable reference for those with an interest in cultural studies feminist studies and new technologies      Deutsche Nationalbibliografie Die deutsche Nationalbibliothek,2008      Theory And Design Of Digital Communication Systems South Asian Edition ,      Cyberculture and the Subaltern Radhika Gajjala,2012-01-01 Through interdisciplinary lenses enabled by cultural studies and feminist methodologies this book edited by Radhika Gajjala looks at online microfinance new technologies virtual world marketing and handloom contexts from India and Africa in relation to development discourse that posits a binary between tradition and modernity      Special Issue Asif A.
