

HISTORY GRADE 12 NOTES

QUESTION 1: SOURCE-BASED SECTION

THE COLD WAR IN EUROPE

- Before the end of World War II, the Western European countries and the Soviet Union began to grow suspicious of each other.
- The lack of trust and co-operation between the USA and USSR in particular, led to what is commonly referred to as the Cold War.

What was the Cold War?

- The Cold War was a series of mounting tensions between the two super-powers, each representing differing ideologies.
- On the one hand the USA symbolised a capitalist, democratic system and the USSR or Russia, stood for the principles of communism and a one-party system of government.
- The struggle between the two sides, the East vs the West, was an indirect conflict and usually at considerable risk to global peace.
- At times, the cold war became 'warm' and threatened to develop into full scale, 'hot' war - but one of the two powers always backed down at the last minute and thus the cold war continued for a lengthy period.

Origins of the Cold War

- After World War II, the Allied Powers had several conferences to discuss the future of Germany and the reconstruction of Europe.
- In February 1945, the Yalta Conference was held in the Soviet Union and the following was decided upon by the Big Three (Russia, USA and Britain).
 - That Germany be divided into four Zones of occupation - Russian, American, British and French.
 - Berlin, the capital of Germany, which was situated in the Russian Zone, be divided into four sections, one for each of the 4 major

Geographies of Schooling Holger Jahnke, Caroline Kramer, Peter Meusburger, 2019-08-21 This open access book explores the complex relationship between schooling as a set of practices embedded in educational institutions and their specific spatial dimensions from different disciplinary perspectives. It presents innovative empirical and conceptual research by international scholars from the fields of social geography, pedagogy, educational and social sciences in Germany, the United Kingdom, France, Czechia, Hungary, Austria, Switzerland, Norway, and Canada. The book covers a broad range of topics all examined from a spatial perspective: the governance of schooling, the transition processes of and within national school systems, the question of small schools in peripheral areas, as well as the embeddedness of schooling in broader processes of social change. Transcending disciplinary boundaries, the book offers deep insights into current theoretical debates and empirical case studies within the broad research field encompassing the complex relationship between education and space.

Globalisation and Multicultural Education Joseph Zajda, Suzanne Majhanovich, 2024-11-11 This book analyses dominant discourses of globalisation, multiculturalism, and schooling. The chapters advance further the discussions on globalisation and its impact on cultural diversity and multiculturalism in a globalised world. Multicultural education as presented in this volume is seen in a broad context. It includes factors such as race, ethnicity, gender, socio-economic status, culture, age, and physical ability, as well as a variety of beliefs and values. Zajda has argued that globalisation represents a synthesis of technology, ideology, and organisation, specifically related to border crossings of people, global finance, trade, IT convergence, as well as cross-cultural communication. The reality of multiculturalism has been brought into stronger focus because of globalisation. Multiculturalism is more evident today because of globalisation. The book contributes in a very scholarly way to a more holistic understanding of the nexus between globalisation and dominant models of multicultural education and their impact on students' engagement and academic achievement.

Women, Gender, and History

Education Marie-Hélène Brunet, Kristina R. Llewellyn, Rose Fine-Meyer, 2024-11-07 This is the first edited collection to focus on women, gender, and history education in Canada. The aim of this edited collection is threefold: to offer a historical analysis of women and gender in K-12 teaching and learning of history, to provide an examination of women and gender in relation to contemporary pedagogy, curriculum, and resources in K-12 history education and teacher education, and to explore the future of history education when informed by intersectional feminism and gender theory. Readers are introduced to the ways in which women's historical narratives have been repeatedly marginalized despite the efforts of feminist activists and educators. This collection is the beginning of a long-overdue conversation about women and gender in how we teach and learn about the past.

Canada's Residential Schools: The History, Part 2, 1939 to 2000 Truth and Reconciliation Commission of Canada, 2015-12-09 Between 1867 and 2000, the Canadian government sent over 150,000 Aboriginal children to residential schools across the country. Government officials and missionaries agreed that in order to civilize and Christianize Aboriginal children it was necessary to separate them from their parents and their home communities For children life in these schools was lonely and alien Discipline was harsh and daily life was highly regimented Aboriginal languages and cultures were denigrated and suppressed Education and technical training too often gave way to the drudgery of doing the chores necessary to make the schools self sustaining Child neglect was institutionalized and the lack of supervision created situations where students were prey to sexual and physical abusers Legal action by the schools former students led to the creation of the Truth and Reconciliation Commission of Canada in 2008 The product of over six years of research the Commission's final report outlines the history and legacy of the schools and charts a pathway towards reconciliation Canada's Residential Schools The History Part 2 1939 to 2000 carries the story of the residential school system from the end of the Great Depression to the closing of the last remaining schools in the late 1990s It demonstrates that the underfunding and unsafe living conditions that characterized the early history of the schools continued into an era of unprecedented growth and prosperity for most Canadians A miserly funding formula meant that into the late 1950s school meals fell short of the Canada Food Rules Overcrowding poor sanitation and a failure to adhere to fire safety rules were common problems throughout this period While government officials had come to view the schools as costly and inefficient the churches were reluctant to countenance their closure It was not until the late 1960s that the federal government finally wrested control of the system away from the churches Government plans to turn First Nations education over to the provinces met with opposition from Aboriginal organizations that were seeking Indian Control of Indian Education Following parent led occupation of a school in Alberta many of the remaining schools came under Aboriginal administration The closing of the schools coincided with a growing number of convictions of former staff members on charges of sexually abusing students These trials revealed the degree to which sexual abuse at the schools had been covered up in the past Former students who came to refer to themselves as Survivors established regional and national organizations and provided much of the leadership for the campaign that led to the federal government issuing in 2008 an apology to the former students and their families

Inclusive Heritage Amanda L. Capern, Rebecca Haboucha, Sarah Pymer, 2026-01-01 This book focuses on the global goal of inclusivity and sustainability in heritage as defined by the United Nations and UNESCO A detailed Introduction forms a commentary on the state of the field of heritage studies The book is written by a cross disciplinary team working in the GLAMA sector It features contributions on decolonisation in museums and archives co production between heritage professionals and communities the meaning of cultural memory and commemoration in anniversaries and monuments and innovative uses of digital methods in heritage research The chapters analyse the practices of the past that have led to power inequities in heritage representation and they stress the importance of multiculturalism for the future through practices such as preservation of Indigenous languages and material culture Wide ranging case studies and discussions come from the United Kingdom Europe the United States Canada Southeast Asia Australia and Aotearoa New Zealand

Virus Ecology and Disturbances: Impact of Environmental Disruption on the Viruses of Microorganisms Stephen Tobias Abedon,Heather K Allen,2015-03-26 Viruses infect numerous microorganisms including predominantly Bacteria bacteriophages or phages but also Archaea Protists and Fungi They are the most abundant and ubiquitous biological entities on Earth and are important drivers of ecosystem functioning Little is known however about the vast majority of these viruses of microorganisms or VoMs Modern techniques such as metagenomics have enabled the discovery and description of more presumptive VoMs than ever before but also have exposed gaps in our understanding of VoM ecology Exploring the ecology of these viruses which is how they interact with host organisms the abiotic environment larger organisms and even other viruses across a variety of environments and conditions is the next frontier Integration of a growing molecular understanding of VoMs with ecological studies will expand our knowledge of ecosystem dynamics Ecology can be studied at multiple levels including individual organisms populations communities whole ecosystems and the entire biosphere Ecology additionally can consider normal equilibrium conditions or instead perturbations Perturbations are of particular interest because measuring the effect of disturbances on VoM associated communities provides important windows into how VoMs contribute to ecosystem dynamics These disturbances in turn can be studied through in vitro in vivo and in situ experimentation measuring responses by VoM associated communities to changes in nutrient availability stress physical disruption seasonality etc and could apply to studies at all ecological levels

These are considered here across diverse systems and environments
