The British Short Story of the First World War: Form, Function, and Communication

This thesis provides an overview of British short stories of and about the First World War from 1914 to the present day, with a particular focus on popular magazine fiction. The central questions addressed is why a genre as prolific and as widely read as the short story of the First World War did not become part of the war's literary canon. A further subject of investigation is the questions of form-the formal and thematic features of the short story genre on the one hand, and the war as a topic on the other, affect processes of communication. The thesis locates First World War short stories in between two canons: a literary canon of short fiction, which is dominated by a modernist aesthetic of the short story, and a socio-cultural canon of Great War writing, which is defined by a demand for authenticity of experience to writing about war. It asks whether or not First World War short stories, gleaned from magazine back numbers, anthologies and collections, is discussed in relation to these conflicting demands. This study explores the changing social functions of Great War short stories and their diverse formal and stylistic approaches to the subject of the war, covering stories from wartime to inter- and post-war Britain. Short fiction addressing the First World War is, however, not seen in isolation, but is placed in the context of other writing about that conflict. It is moreover read in relation to its publishing environment, taking into account the specific conditions under which short fiction is produced and published in a rapidly changing market of periodicals and anthologies.

The Short Story and the First World War Ann-Marie Einhaus, 2013-07-31 The poetry of the First World War has come to dominate our understanding of its literature while genres such as the short story which are just as vital to the literary heritage of the era have largely been neglected In this study Ann Marie Einhaus challenges deeply embedded cultural conceptions about the literature of the First World War using a corpus of several hundred short stories that until now have not undergone any systematic critical analysis From early wartime stories to late twentieth century narratives and spanning a wide spectrum of literary styles and movements Einhaus's work reveals a range of responses to the war through fiction from pacifism to militarism Going beyond the household names of Owen Sassoon and Graves Einhaus offers scholars and students unprecedented access to new frontiers in twentieth century literary studies

The Short Story and the First World War Ann-Marie Einhaus, 2013-07-31 Covering a range of topics settings and styles the book offers the first comprehensive study of short fiction from the First World War

The Penguin Book of First World War Stories Ann-Marie Einhaus, Barbara Korte, 2007-10-25 An anthology of Great War short stories by British writers both famous and lesser known authors men and women during the war and after its end These stories are able to illustrate the impact of the Great War on British society and culture and the many modes in which short fiction contributed to the war's literature The selection covers different periods the war years themselves the famous boom years of the late 1920s to the more recent past in which the First World War has received new cultural interest

The British Short Story of the First World War Ann-Marie Einhaus, 2010 This thesis provides an overview of British short stories of and about the First World War from 1914 to the present day with a particular focus on popular magazine fiction The central question addressed is why a genre as prolific and as widely read as the short story of the First World War did not become part of the war's literary canon A further subject of investigation is the question of how the formal and thematic features of the short story genre on the one hand and the war as a topic on the other affect processes of canonisation The thesis locates First World War short stories in between two canons a literary canon of short fiction which is dominated by a modernist aesthetics of the short story and a socio cultural canon of Great War writing which is defined by a demand for authenticity of experience in writing about war A wide selection of First World War short stories gleaned from magazine back numbers anthologies and collections is discussed in relation to these conflicting demands This study explores the changing social functions of Great War short stories and their diverse formal and stylistic approaches to the subject of the war covering stories from wartime to inter and post war Britain Short fiction addressing the First World War is however not seen in isolation but is placed in the context of other writing about that conflict It is moreover read in relation to its publishing environment taking into account the specific conditions under which short fiction is produced and published in a rapidly changing market of periodicals and anthologies

Edinburgh Companion to the First World War and the Arts Ann-Marie Einhaus, 2017-05-24 A new exploration of literary and artistic responses to WW1 from 1914 to the present This authoritative reference work examines literary and artistic responses to the wars upheavals across a wide range of media and genres from poetry to pamphlets sculpture to television documentary and requiems to war reporting Rather than looking at particular forms of artistic expression in isolation and focusing only on the war and inter war period the 26 essays collected in this volume approach artistic responses to the war from a wide variety of angles and where appropriate pursue their inquiry into the present day In 6 sections covering Literature the Visual Arts Music Periodicals and Journalism Film and Broadcasting and Publishing and Material Culture a wide range of original chapters from experts across literature and the arts examine what means and approaches were employed to respond to the shock of war as well as asking such key questions as how and why literary and artistic responses to the war have changed over time and how far later works of art are responses not only to the war itself but to earlier cultural production Key Features Offers new insights into the breadth and depth of artistic responses to WWI Establishes links and parallels across a wide range of different media and genres Emphasises the development of responses in different fields from 1914 to the present

Handbook of British Literature and Culture of the First World War Ralf Schneider, Jane Potter, 2021-09-20 The First World War has given rise to a multifaceted cultural production like no other historical event This handbook surveys British literature and film about the war from 1914 until today The continuing interest in World War I highlights the interdependence of war experience the imaginative re creation of that experience in writing and individual as well as collective memory In the first part of the handbook the major genres of war writing and film are addressed including of course poetry and the novel but also the short story furthermore it is shown how our conception of the Great War is broadened when looked at from the perspective of gender studies and post colonial criticism The chapters in the second part present close readings of important contributions to the literary and filmic representation of World War I in Great Britain All in all the contributions demonstrate how the opposing forces of focusing and canon formation on the one hand and broadening and revision of the canon on the other have characterised British literature and culture of the First World War

The Epistolary Renaissance Maria Löschnigg, Rebekka Schuh, 2018-09-10 Since the late twentieth century letters in literature have seen a remarkable renaissance The prominence of letters in recent fiction is due in part to the rediscovery by contemporary writers of letters as an effective tool for rendering aspects of historicity liminality marginalization and the expression of subjectivity vis vis an other it is also due however to the artistically challenging inclusion of the new electronic media of communication into fiction While studies of epistolary fiction have so far concentrated on the eighteenth century and on thematic concerns this volume charts the epistolary renaissance in recent literature entering new territory by also focusing on the aesthetic implications of the epistolary mode In particular the essays in this volume illuminate the potential of the epistolary including digital forms for rendering contemporary sensitivities The volume thus offers a comprehensive assessment of letter narratives in contemporary literature Through its focus on the aesthetic and structural aspects of new epistolary fiction the inclusion of various narrative forms and the consideration of both conventional letters and their new digital kindred The Epistolary Renaissance offers novel insight into a multi faceted re new ed genre     The Great War David Almond,John Boyne,Tracy Chevalier,Ursula Dubosarsky,Timothée de Fombelle,Adele Geras,Al Kennedy,Tanya Lee Stone,Michael Morpurgo,Marcus Sedgwick,Sheena Wilkinson,2014-06 A moving collection of short stories by bestselling authors each inspired by a different object from the First World War The objects include a writing case belonging to a young soldier who was killed on the first day of the Somme a butter dish featuring a message from Lloyd George urging people to be economical with food and a toy soldier dressed in the uniform of the French Army     The Bookman ,1926     The Congregationalist and Advance ,1918     Among Our Books Carnegie Library of Pittsburgh,1929     The Literary Digest Edward Jewitt Wheeler,Isaac Kaufman Funk,William Seaver Woods,Arthur Stimson Draper,Wilfred John Funk,1918     The Editorial ,1916     The Publishers' Circular and Booksellers' Record ,1928     The Bookseller, Newsdealer and Stationer ,1917     The Open Shelf ,1919     The National Cyclopaedia of American Biography ,1927     Country Life ,1920     The People's Year Book ,1930     The Editor ,1919
