Jewish Responses to Persecution: 1933-1938 Jürgen Matthäus, Mark Roseman, 2010-01-16 A history of the Holocaust from 1933 to 1938 told from the Jewish perspective through period documents annotations and black and white photographs

McDonald, 2009-04-14 New evidence presented in Refugees and Rescue challenges widely held opinions about Franklin D. Roosevelt's views on the rescue of European Jews before and during the Holocaust. The struggles of presidential confidant James G. McDonald who resigned as League of Nations High Commissioner for Refugees in 1935 and his allies to transfer many of the otherwise doomed are disclosed here for the first time. Although McDonald's efforts as chairman of FDR's advisory committee on refugees from May 1938 until nearly the end of the war were hampered by the pervasive antisemitic attitudes of those years, fears about security and changing presidential wartime priorities, tens of thousands did find haven. McDonald's 1935-1936 diary entries and the other primary sources presented here offer new insights into these conflicts and into Roosevelt's inconsistent attitudes toward the Jewish question in Europe. Following the lauded Advocate for the Doomed IUP 2007, this is the second of a projected three-volume work that will significantly revise views of the Holocaust, its antecedents, and its aftermath.
