There are two basic types of business organizations: for-profit and not-for-profit. For-profit organizations are those that are organized to make a profit for their owners or shareholders. Not-for-profit organizations are those that are organized for a purpose other than making a profit, such as education, religion, or charity. Both types of organizations can be organized as sole proprietorships, partnerships, or corporations. The main difference between for-profit and not-for-profit organizations is that for-profit organizations have owners or shareholders who are entitled to a share of the profits, while not-for-profit organizations do not have owners or shareholders and any profits are reinvested in the organization.
