

A full-page background image featuring a central figure of an astronaut in a white spacesuit, floating within a bright, glowing orange and yellow ring that resembles a gravitational well or a black hole's accretion disk. The ring is set against a dark, star-filled space background with faint, curved lines suggesting motion or spacetime curvature. The astronaut is positioned in the center of the ring, looking away from the viewer towards the center of the ring.

compare the eruptions of our Sun with these holes and remember that the Moon lost her systolic action when she lost her Planets When the Sun s corona is destroyed or worn out by its incessant labors or by the destruction of his Planets you will see greater holes upon his surface than you see now upon the Moon s When that time comes the Moon will be numbered with the rest of those dark bodies in the sky which took millions and millions of years to make The Moon still dispenses all the beautiful colors and mineral solutions that the Sun does All the colors of our system come from the Sun through his rays on the outside and by the diffusion from the tube connects him with our Earth The Moon s spiral though smaller is identical with that of the Sun and she is bound by double lines as the Sun is These lines cross her surface as they do the Sun s and     The Relation of Carlyle to Kant and Fichte Margaret Storrs,1929     Space, Time and Architecture Sigfried Giedion,2009-02-28 A classic in its field Space Time and Architecture has been revised and expanded four times since its initial publication and translated into half a dozen languages Giedion delves deeply into the technical advances that have made modern architecture possible while never losing sight of the human feeling that brings structures to life     SPACE TIME TRAVEL WASFI A.
