CHOUDHARI (Researcher), Dr. (Mrs) SUNANDA BIRE (Supervisor), During the past decade, the number of television receivers per home has skyrocketed, with many children each having a TV set in their bedroom. Through cable and satellite access, families have a choice of a hundred or more channels, most broadcasting twenty-four hours a day. The videotape recorder has enabled viewers to delay watching or to rewatch television programs at any time and thereby shift the traditional viewing hours to virtually any time of the day The research studies directed at these phenomena have confirmed however that little effect has been seen in children s viewing habits There was simply more of the same programming fare and it was available through a broader time frame The distribution of television sets into various areas of the home and the less traditional hours of availability have if anything reduced the opportunities for parental coviewing and control The V chip was predicted to enhance the ability of parents to exercise such control but appears to have been a failure with many parents not even aware of the existence of such a device
