Trash day set for tomorrow

Housley urges caution during tornado season

Tornado season is about to begin, according to Wendell Housley, Allen Civil Defense Director.

Housley says tornadoes often accompany severe thunderstorms and if a tornado is approaching, motorists should turn for radio or television weather service bulletin.

"If a tornado is between a house 'south' and a highway, get out, and if a house is between a house 'south' and a highway, get out," Housley said. "In a tornado warning, a tornado has been detected and now advance warnings are available."

When a tornado threatens, Housley offers the following advice:

- * Stay away from windows, doors and outside walls.

those areas without having to leave quickly.

The department started in February when a 1-day pickup was held for the Monday-Tuesday customers. The service was well liked by customers. There were such complaints, including, springs, toys, chairs, iron boxes, water cans, lawn chairs, lawnmowers and bicycles. All items will be included in the pickup.

Customers can place items down where they usually place their garbage cans.

* Protect your land.

* In homes and small buildings, get to the basement or the lowest level—closets, bathrooms, or interior halls. Do not use anything nearby.

* In schools, nursing homes, hospitals, theaters, and other public places, go to pre-designated shelter areas. Follow hallway or the lowest floor are usually best.

* In high-rise buildings, go to lower level, or on the floor below, then there and go to a safe, stand structure if there is no shelter nearby. In fact, in the storm, talk, lie on, or crawl with your head under building floor.

72.4 is average lifespan in county

The chances of living to a ripe old age are better than they have ever been for the average resident of Collin County.

Because of the advances made in the fields of medicine and health care in the past decade, a child born in the local area at the present time has a life expectancy of 72.4 years, which is a new high.

In a matter of comparison, it is about four years more than its parents would have lived when they were born. Going back still further, in 1950, when grandfathers were born, the expectancy then was only 59.7 years of life.

The development of the so-called miracle drugs around that time, and the resultant improvement in the health care system, led to dramatic gains in longevity, according to the National Center for Health Statistics.

Today, a 25-year-old person in Collin County has the statistical life expectancy of 72.4 years. The chances of living to a ripe old age are better than they have ever been for the average resident of Collin County.

The added life expectancy, as every citizen along the way, has produced a big increase in the number of men and women over 65.

The extent of the change is indicated in data compiled by the U.S. Census Bureau. At the turn of the century, it reports, only 1 out of every 24 persons in the country was 65 or over.

By 1970, because of the greater life span, about 1 out of 10 were in that age bracket. Currently it is 1 out of 8.

In Collin County, the figures show more than 1,000 persons, representing 2.9 percent of the population, are 65 or over. As the population grows, they have the probability of living another 12 years, according to the U.S. Census Bureau, meaning that age has the prospect of 17 additional years.
