Regulating Audiovisual Services Thomas Gibbons,2023-07-14 In recent years the changing nature of audiovisual services has had a significant impact on regulatory policy and practice The adoption of digital technology means that broadcasting cable satellite the Internet and mobile telephony are converging enabling each of them to deliver the same kinds of content and allowing users to exercise much greater choice over the kind of material that they receive and when they receive it The essays examine the implications for regulatory design asking whether there is still a role for traditional style state controls or whether other techniques such as competition in the market and self regulation are more appropriate They also explore how in the digital era structural issues of media ownership and control become problems of access and interconnection between services and how content regulation focuses more on problems raised by the interactions between providers and users the relationship between freedom of information and technologies to control it and the international reach of the new media

Blogging America Aaron Barlow,2007-11-30 As blogs have evolved over the last few years they have begun to take on distinct characteristics depending on audience and purpose Though political blogs remain the most high profile and most read other types of blogs are gaining in strength and visibility. This book is a follow up volume to Barlow's Rise of the Blogosphere which examined the historical context for the modern blog. It provides an examination of the many current aspects of the blogosphere from the political to the professional to the personal with many stops in between. Given that millions of blogs have been created over the past five years and yet more come online at an undiminished rate and given that enthusiasm for both reading them and writing them has yet to wane it is likely that the blog explosion will continue indefinitely. Cognitive and Linguistic Aspects of Geographic Space D.M. Mark, Andrew U. Frank, 2012-12-06. This book contains twenty eight papers by participants in the NATO Advanced Study Institute ASI on Cognitive and Linguistic Aspects of Geographic Space held in Las Navas del Maxques, Spain July 8-20 1990. The NATO ASI marked a stage in a two year research project at the U.S. National Center for Geographic Information and Analysis NCOIA. In 1987 the U.S. National Science Foundation issued a solicitation for proposals to establish the NCGIA and one element of that solicitation was a call for research on a fundamental theory of spatial relations. We felt that such a fundamental theory could be searched for in mathematics geometry topology or in cognitive science but that a simultaneous search in these two seemingly disparate research areas might produce novel results Thus as part of the NCGIA proposal from a consortium consisting of the University of California at Santa Barbara the State University of New York at Buffalo and the University of Maine we proposed that the second major Research Initiative two year multidisciplinary research project of the NCOIA would address these issues and would be called Languages of Spatial Relations The grant to establish the NCOIA was awarded to our consortium late in 1988     The Canadian Forum Charles Bruce Sissons, Richard De Brisay, 1990 Includes critical reviews
