Modern Sculpture Reader Jon Wood,David Hulks,Alex Potts,2012-08-21 In many anthologies of art sculpture is given short shrift in relation to other media if it is treated at all Modern Sculpture Reader aims to rectify this situation by presenting a collection of important texts that have defined sculpture s radically changing status and role since the end of the nineteenth century a time marked by a general reappraisal of the forms and functions of art From the rigorously theoretical to the experimental and poetic Modern Sculpture Reader offers a lively discourse on the medium by a range of artists writers critics and poets Marcel Duchamp Louise Bourgeois Claes Oldenberg Andr Breton Ezra Pound and Clement Greenberg in a variety of genres poems lectures transcribed interviews newspaper and magazine articles and artists statements These diverse text selections offer valuable insight into the development of the critical language of sculpture and its connections to other media in an era of increasingly conceptual artistic practice Many of the essays highlight key ongoing concerns such as sculpture s physical properties and conditions of display both of which have important implications for the viewer s tactile and emotional interaction with sculptural works
