of standard and advanced estimators into MATLAB code. The book first provides a brief introduction to MATLAB and its syntax before moving into microeconometric applications studied in undergraduate and graduate econometrics courses. Along with standard estimation methods such as for example Method of Moments, Maximum Likelihood and constrained optimisation, the book also includes a series of chapters examining more advanced research methods. These include discrete choice, discrete games, dynamic models on a finite and infinite horizon and semi and nonparametric methods. In closing, it discusses more advanced features that can be used to optimise use of MATLAB including parallel computing. Each chapter is structured around a number of worked examples designed for the reader to tackle as they move through the book. Each chapter ends with a series of readings, questions and extensions designed to help the reader on their way to adapting the examples in the book to fit their own research questions.
