Teaching Culture Perspectives In Practice:

Teaching Culture Patrick R. Moran, 2001 TEACHING CULTURE PERSPECTIVES IN PRACTICE offers multiple viewpoints on the interrelationship between language and culture and how they serve to teach meaning offer a lens of identity and provide a mechanism for social participation Authentic classroom experiences engage the reader and offer teachers invaluable support as they expand their ideas about how language and culture work together Teachers as Mediators in the Foreign Language Classroom Michelle Kohler, 2015-01-12 Language teachers are key figures in preparing young people for participation in an increasingly multilingual and culturally diverse world yet little is known about how they go about this in practice This book uses examples of classroom interaction to reveal how teachers of languages act as intercultural mediators and the implications of this for practice To date there has been little exploration of how teachers mediate language and culture learning from an intercultural perspective and what underlies their mediation practices in terms of their conceptions of intercultural language teaching and learning This book offers an account of what teachers are thinking feeling and doing as they enact an intercultural perspective on language teaching and learning Exploring Innovative Pedagogy in the Teaching and Learning of Chinese as a Foreign Language Robyn Moloney, Hui Ling Xu, 2015-11-07 Teachers of Chinese as a foreign language in many international contexts are searching for pedagogic solutions to promote effective learning Models of innovative and successful approaches are urgently needed This volume presents a collection of compelling and empirically rich research studies that showcases innovative developments in the practice of teaching Chinese as a foreign language The studies focus on three interrelated areas learners teachers and applications of new technologies Specifically the studies explore methods for fostering learner centred classrooms autonomous learners intercultural learning the role of teacher views and identities the nature of a middle ground approach and technologies that accommodate the unique aspects of the Chinese language with new options for mobile and interactive learners Providing both inspiration and practical models for language practitioners and researchers it offers a vital resource for teachers professional development and for pre service teacher education Proceedings of VIAC in October 2023 Group of Authors, 2023-10-26 International Academic Conferences Management Economics and Marketing Teaching Learning and E learning Transport Logistics Tourism and Sport Science Engineering Robotics IT and Nanotechnology Intercultural Competence in Education Fred Dervin, Zehavit Gross, 2016-09-29 This book explores the concept of intercultural competence focusing specifically on education Intercultural competence can vary depending on the field of research or the context of application and has therefore developed over recent decades As the world becomes increasingly global intercultural competence has become even more important but it is still not practiced satisfactorily This book highlights views which are at odds with official and orthodox positions on intercultural competence to encourage fresh approaches to intercultural competence It will be invaluable for researchers practitioners and students interested in the global possibilities of education

Issues in Materials Development Maryam Azarnoosh, Mitra Zeraatpishe, Akram Faravani, Hamid Reza

Kargozari, 2016-03-22 Issues in Materials Development provides readers with theoretical foundations and practical aspects of designing materials for EFL/ESL contexts. It starts with discussing some basic and preliminary principles of materials design followed by scrutinizing critical issues in materials development in an objective and systematic way. This ranges from considering learners' needs adopting selection and gradation of materials to the specific focus of the book on developing various types of materials for the four language skills: pronunciation, ESP vocabulary, and computer-assisted language learning materials. Authenticity of materials to be designed and the inclusion of affective factors to develop motivating materials to engage language learners in addition to features of materials design at a universal level are other areas to read about. This book finally tries to open new horizons and possible futuristic approaches to improve today's ELT materials. Language Teachers' Stories from their Professional Knowledge Landscapes Lesley Harbon, Robyn

Moloney, 2017-06-23 Language Teachers' Professional Knowledge Landscapes is a collection of fourteen narratives from teachers of different languages at different school levels in different contexts across Australia. This volume brings together not simply language teacher stories but also more political stories of the problems associated with school programs and contexts. Highlighted through these stories are some of the major political issues in schools that impact language teachers' work and their students' success in sustained language study. The book is conceptually framed by the work of Clandinin and Connelly (1996) and their notion of levels of stories told by teachers about their classrooms: the secret, the sacred, and the cover stories. The term professional knowledge landscape is used to indicate how teachers can critically situate their work and thereby understand it better. The collection includes the stories of two outstanding primary language educators and a story of mixed success in a rural program in teaching the local Aboriginal language Ngarrabul. There are stories of frustration with policy failures, particularly in supporting the learning of Asian languages. Many of the teacher narrators ask the confronting question: What blocks language learning in Australia? They offer the strategies which they have developed that they see making a difference. Other narratives offer autoethnographic tracking of careers, for example as a teacher of Latin and Classics, Japanese, French, Spanish, Russian, and of teachers' ongoing vigour and creativity in advocacy. A number of teachers examine their own identity story for the intercultural learning which they then offer and extend in student learning. Consistently expressed is the need for teachers to take up individual responsibility while still being strongly supported by their professional community. It is us who make the difference, one teacher concludes. Supported by a strong Foreword by Canadian scholar F. Michael Connelly, this ground-breaking collection of narratives represents a form of social research in providing critical illustrations of the issues needing attention for national language education enhancement. It is the only extended inquiry into language teaching in the context of an active policy initiative environment and the first volume to address the language education landscape through the voices of active language teachers. Future Perspectives for
