The Symposium of 1990, an historic event for the profession, focused much energy on the topic of ethics in a relatively well-defined manner. The Milwaukee event did not present just the ethical issues of interest to the profession but also addressed the broader issues of the future of the profession. The Milwaukee event gathered us into the "A" shape in the sky. The symposium in Chicago was "C" shaped and concentrated on the ethical issues of the profession. The Chicago event was "B" shaped, concentrating on the broader issues of the future of the profession. The San Francisco Symposium was organized by Timothy Kasser, who has been the national officer for the American Psychological Association. The Republic's main business, however, is to supply the world with the finest quality of cotton. The cotton is grown in the Republic's main cotton-growing areas, which are the most fertile and best irrigated in the country. The cotton is then ginned and baled in the Republic's main cotton-ginning and baling areas, which are the most modern and best equipped in the country. The cotton is then shipped to the world's major cotton markets, where it is sold at the highest prices. The Republic's cotton is known for its high quality and its low cost, and it is one of the most important exports of the country.
