Teaching Statistics A Bag Of Tricks:

Teaching Statistics Andrew Gelman, Deborah Nolan, 2017-08-03 Students in the sciences economics social sciences and medicine take an introductory statistics course And yet statistics can be notoriously difficult for instructors to teach and for students to learn To help overcome these challenges Gelman and Nolan have put together this fascinating and thought provoking book Based on years of teaching experience the book provides a wealth of demonstrations activities examples and projects that involve active student participation Part I of the book presents a large selection of activities for introductory statistics courses and has chapters such as First week of class with exercises to break the ice and get students talking then descriptive statistics graphics linear regression data collection sampling and experimentation probability inference and statistical communication Part II gives tips on what works and what doesn't how to set up effective demonstrations how to encourage students to participate in class and to work effectively in group projects Course plans for introductory statistics statistics for social scientists and communication and graphics are provided Part III presents material for more advanced courses on topics such as decision theory Bayesian statistics sampling and data science Teaching Statistics Andrew Gelman, Deborah Ann Nolan, 2017 Based on years of teaching experience this work provides a wealth of demonstrations examples projects and course plans for teachers of statistics courses at all levels It also includes hints on how to organize and motivate student groups Teaching Statistics Nolan Gelman, 2017 Developing Students' Statistical Reasoning Joan Garfield, Dani Ben-Zvi, 2008-09-08 Increased attention is being paid to the need for statistically educated citizens statistics is now included in the K 12 mathematics curriculum increasing numbers of students are taking courses in high school and introductory statistics courses are required in college However increasing the amount of instruction is not sufficient to prepare statistically literate citizens A major change is needed in how statistics is taught To bring about this change three dimensions of teacher knowledge need to be addressed their knowledge of statistical content their pedagogical knowledge and their statistical pedagogical knowledge i.e. their specific knowledge about how to teach statistics This book is written for mathematics and statistics educators and researchers It summarizes the research and highlights the important concepts for teachers to emphasize and shows the interrelationships among concepts It makes specific suggestions regarding how to build classroom activities integrate technological tools and assess students learning This is a unique book While providing a wealth of examples through lessons and data sets it is also the best attempt by members of our profession to integrate suggestions from research findings with statistics concepts and pedagogy The book's message about the importance of listening to research is loud and clear as is its message about alternative ways of teaching statistics This book will impact instructors giving them pause to consider Is what I'm doing now really the best thing for my students What could I do better J Michael Shaughnessy Professor Dept of Mathematical Sciences Portland State University USA This is a much needed text for linking research and practice in teaching statistics The authors have provided a comprehensive overview of the current state of the art in statistics education research The insights they have gleaned from the literature should be tremendously helpful for those involved in teaching and researching introductory courses Randall E Groth Assistant Professor of Mathematics Education Salisbury University USA

Assessment Methods in Statistical Education Penelope Bidgood, Neville Hunt, Flavia Jolliffe, 2010-03-10 Assessment Methods in Statistical Education An International Perspective provides a modern international perspective on assessing students of statistics in higher education It is a collection of contributions written by some of the leading figures in statistical education from around the world drawing on their personal teaching experience and educational research The book reflects the wide variety of disciplines such as business psychology and the health sciences which include statistics teaching and assessment The authors acknowledge the increasingly important role of technology in assessment whether it be using the internet for accessing information and data sources or using software to construct and manage individualised or online assessments Key Features Presents successful assessment strategies striking a balance between formative and summative assessment individual and group work take away assignments and supervised tests Assesses statistical thinking by questioning students ability to interpret and communicate the results of their analysis Relates assessment to the real world by basing it on real data in an appropriate context Provides a range of individualised assessment methods including those that deter plagiarism and collusion by providing each student with a unique problem to solve or dataset to analyse This book is essential reading for anyone involved in teaching statistics at tertiary level or interested in statistical education research
