A Survey of Interactive Electronic Technical Manuals Used for Training and Education ,1996 The Navy Personnel Research and Development Center NPRDC working with the Naval Sea Systems Command NAVSEA and Chief of Naval Education and Training CNET completed a program of research development and evaluation for automating classroom activities in which interactive electronic technical manuals IETMs are used. The project addressed two Navy training problems 1 the need to utilize emerging technologies to improve maintenance performance and reduce maintenance costs and 2 the need to improve the efficiency of the Navy training pipeline. These problems are being addressed by combining IETM technology with an integrated electronic multimedia editing and delivery system. The survey and analysis was conducted of practices in the design development and application of education and training that incorporates interactive hypermedia based and IETM like documents. An overview of IETMs is provided. Applications surveyed included such instructional settings as traditional classroom instruction, virtual classrooms and on demand and Just in time instruction. The survey also covered both Navy and non Navy applications. Non Navy activities included other military, government, industry and higher education organizations.
