Stephen the Black (Classic Reprint) Caroline H. Pemberton, 2015-07-11 Excerpt from Stephen the Black One Sunday morning in April Wesley Anderson sat as usual before the door of his cabin under the shade of a fragrant China berry tree A hazy cloud of gnats which shared with him the sweet odors and the pleasant shade did not disturb his meditations This black field hand of an Alabama plantation was enjoying an hour's retrospection much as a New England farmer enjoys his weekly newspaper The events of the past thirty three years lay open before him and he recalled them deliberately as one reads from a newspaper the occurrences of the past week These memories were made up mostly of national events in which his own personality was lost in the great issues of American history About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
