Men in Color Josep M. Armengol,2011-01-18 Comprising seven different chapters the collection Men in Color attempts to analyze and revisit the representation of ethnic masculinities both white and non white in and through contemporary U S literature and cinema If most of the existing studies on masculinity and race have centered on one specific model of racialized masculinities Men in Color attempts to provide an introductory perspective on different racialized masculinities simultaneously including African American Asian American Chicano Arab American and also white masculinity which is analyzed as another ethnic and gendered construct rather than as a paradigm of normalcy and universality By exploring several ethnic masculinities in relation to each other the present volume aims to highlight both the differences and the similarities between different patterns of masculinity showing how even as gender is inflected by race certain aspects or features of masculinity remain unchanged across the ethnic board Ultimately the volume as a whole illustrates both the changing nature of masculinities as well as the recurrence of certain stereotypes such as the hypersexualization and or the feminization of ethnic males which recur in and across several ethnicities The constant tension and intersection between gender and race is the subject of this book which hopes to contribute some notes and reflections on ethnic masculinities to the much more complex and larger discussion about gender and racial identities in our increasingly multicultural and globalized 21st century world

New Yorker Harold Wallace Ross, William Shawn, Tina Brown, David Remnick, Katharine Sergeant Angell White, Rea Irvin, Roger Angell, 1997    The Best from Fantasy and Science Fiction, 1929    Post Soul Poetics LaVelle Q. Ridley, 2015 Nelson George's notion of the post soul aesthetic defined as the artistic vision of black artists who come of age after the Civil Rights and Black Power Arts Movements of the 1960s and 70s provides many African American writers and scholars with a vehicle for critically examining contemporary African American literature and culture. In his 1996 debut novel The White Boy Shuffle poet Paul Beatty parodies and examines many spheres of contemporary black culture among them the facade of white multiculturalism the queerness of black masculinity and the globalization of black popular culture. I argue that the formal structure of the novel replicates Beatty's exploration and subversion of post soul discourses on blackness. By simultaneously rejecting yet working within the category of post soul The White Boy Shuffle evinces a post soul sensibility that maintains the fluidity and playfulness inherent to the post soul generation illustrating Greg Tate's definition of post soul as the African American equivalent to postmodernism. Through the protagonist Gunnar Kaufman a young black poet I believe that the novel's form prioritizes poetry which disrupts the fictional genre. Also by employing particular racial nomenclature and consistent querying from Gunnar which satirizes past racial discourses the novel signifies on the timeline of America's never ending discussion of race and brings them forward for the post soul generation to examine    Writing the Future of Black America Daniel Grassian, 2009 An insightful exploration into the works of African American writers born in the 1960s and 1970s Writing the Future of Black America explores the work of eight representative African American writers of the hip hop generation to assess their common themes and offer insights into contemporary race relations in America as expressed and challenged in their works. In this groundbreaking study Daniel Grassian takes as his subjects a group of impressive novelists essayists poets and playwrights Paul Beatty Trey Ellis Terrence Hayes Allison Joseph Jake Lamar Suzan Lori Parks Danzy Senna and Colson Whitehead to chart the depths of their literary work against that of their predecessors in the civil rights generation and their predominantly white contemporaries of Generation X. Characterized by the pursuit of empowerment through hybridity social criticism and personal expression hip hop has become the music and culture of choice for a sizable portion of America regardless of race or socioeconomic standing. Meanwhile the writers of this generation have received little serious critical attention aside from singular book reviews and occasional essays. Grassian fills in a gap in the discourse with his thorough analysis of the works crafted by these distinguished hip hop writers and he makes a case for the validity and value of studying their sophisticated engagements with race in contemporary America. Selected because their work addresses a broad range of African American life these writers fathom such topics as what it means to be African American or multiethnic in an increasingly global society what role art and literature play in affecting their communities and what positive and negative authority has been assigned to popular culture and hip hop culture specifically in modern African American life    The Publishers Weekly, 1891
