Critical Research Methodologies ,2021-02-08 We live in a society that promotes the universal process of producing knowledge and truth making as fundamental social process Such promotion of universality seems to subjugate others forms of knowing rendering them invisible unintelligible and ineligible and subsequently outside the community of knowing This has material and symbolic consequences in terms of how research informs policy and subsequent victimization of those who live and experience subjugation meted by Western truth making universalism In the words of Foucault this book is an insurrection of subterranean and clandestine knowledges in ways that provide not just an alternative process of knowledge production but affirms local knowledge as necessary in production of a just society The book looks at research as a social justice and transformational process that should speak of people s ways of live without necessarily streamlining them into numbers The book is a critically reflexive project in terms of returning processes of knowledge production to the local space rather than imagining them as entirely centred in the structure To imagine this book as reflexive exercise is to break boundaries of knowledges in ways that come to imagine how local performs global in very complicated and complex ways This book is a resurrection of local knowledges steeped in creative and imaginative reflexive methodologies that come to reorient how we come to know what we know the values and realities that mark what we know and the how of knowledge production It centres subjugated voices and knowledges as fundamental in production of knowledge Contributors include Katie Bannon Elizabeth Charles Khulood Agha Khan Dionisio Nyaga Fritz Pino and Rose Ann Torres

Addictive Disorders and Digital Medicine: Technology-based solutions for Addictive Disorders Sang-Kyu Lee, Chul-Hyun Cho, Daniel King, 2025-12-20 While treatment for addictive disorders has made significant progress there are still several limitations that exist in the current landscape These limitations include treatment gap stigma to seeking help limited resources lack of personalization and application of technology Technology based solutions offer a promising avenue for addiction treatment and recovery support They have the potential to revolutionize the field by increasing accessibility personalization and long term support ultimately improving outcomes for individuals struggling with addiction      Early Psychosis and Early Intervention: Clinical, Functional, and Cognitive Outcomes Wing Chung Chang, Takahiro Nemoto, Sherry Kit Wa Chan, Young-Chul Chung, 2024-09-04 Psychotic disorders are a group of severe mental disorders which affects 2-3% of the population and constitutes one of the leading causes of disability worldwide. Early intervention (EI) represents a major paradigm shift in psychiatric service and has been demonstrated to be effective in outcome improvement for first episode psychosis (FEP) and at risk mental state (ARMS). However, despite the promising findings, evidence has shown that a significant proportion of early psychosis patients still experience suboptimal clinical outcomes such as high relapse risk, partial remission, early onset treatment resistance, persistent negative symptoms, etc. functional impairment and cognitive dysfunction. Further research clarifying the complex interrelationships among symptomatology, psychosocial functioning and cognitive deficits in the early illness course as well as evaluating effects of EI on further improvement on clinical functional and cognitive outcomes in patients with early psychosis would therefore facilitate development of next generation EI service to enhance short term treatment outcomes and long term prognosis. This Research Topic aims to further our understanding of the complex relationships between symptomatology, psychosocial functioning and cognitive impairment in the early course of psychotic disorders including first episode psychosis (FEP) and at risk mental state and to evaluate the effects of early intervention either in terms of specific treatment modalities or in the comprehensive service framework on further improvement in clinical functional and cognitive outcomes in patients with early psychosis.
