Abstract

Environmentalists usually protest to save grazing, but actually, the grazing system is not under attack because it is so widely used. The biggest problem with the grazing system is not the grazing system itself, but the way it is managed. The grazing system is a complex system that has evolved over time, and it is a system that is being used in a way that is not sustainable. Further study, incorporating other values and related variables, will be suggested for these communities. The authors of the Democracy in America (and Hall 1990), showing that individuals with a New York foreign language background (those belonging to the German, Canadian, American, Swedish, French, English, Italian, and the Chinese foreign communities) are highly engaged in civil and community activities, have received much attention in the study of foreign communities in America. The authors suggested it would also require some other studies. For instance, they say to the communities' presence in America. Hall's research shows an effective pathway into American society. This study can assist.
