Statistical Analysis of Epidemiologic Data Steve Selvin,2004-05-13 Analytic procedures suitable for the study of human disease are scattered throughout the statistical and epidemiologic literature

Explanations of their properties are frequently presented in mathematical and theoretical language This well established text gives readers a clear understanding of the statistical methods that are widely used in epidemiologic research without depending on advanced mathematical or statistical theory By applying these methods to actual data Selvin reveals the strengths and weaknesses of each analytic approach He combines techniques from the fields of statistics biostatistics demography and epidemiology to present a comprehensive overview that does not require computational details of the statistical techniques described For the Third Edition Selvin took out some old material e g the section on rarely used cross over designs and added new material e g sections on frequently used contingency table analysis Throughout the text he enriched existing discussions with new elements including the analysis of multi level categorical data and simple intuitive arguments that exponential survival times cause the hazard function to be constant He added a dozen new applied examples to illustrate such topics as the pitfalls of proportional mortality data the analysis of matched pair categorical data and the age adjustment of mortality rates based on statistical models The most important new feature is a chapter on Poisson regression analysis This essential statistical tool permits the multivariable analysis of rates probabilities and counts

Hierarchical Modelling for the Environmental Sciences James Samuel Clark,Alan E. Gelfand,2006 New statistical tools are changing the ways in which scientists analyze and interpret data and models Many of these are emerging as a result of the wide availability of inexpensive high speed computational power In particular hierarchical Bayes and Markov Chain Monte Carlo methods for analysis provide consistent framework for inference and prediction where information is heterogeneous and uncertain processes are complex and responses depend on scale Nowhere are these methods more promising than in the environmental sciences Models have developed rapidly and there is now a requirement for a clear exposition of the methodology through to application for a range of environmental challenges

Theories and Methods of Spatio-temporal Reasoning in Geographic Space

Andrew U. Frank,Irene Campari,Ubaldo Formentini,1992 This volume collects the papers presented at the first international conference dedicated to spatial and temporal reasoning in geographic space entitled GIS from space to territory theories and methods of spatio temporal reasoning Within the National Center for Geographic Information and Analysis NCGIA one of the supporters of the conference the importance of spatial and temporal reasoning was recognized several years ago Initial research found that spatial reasoning in geographic or large scale space is different from spatial reasoning in small scale space as usually dealt with in robotics and expertsystems Temporal reasoning has attracted interest in the artificial intelligence community The volume also includes two invited papers Do people understand spatial concepts the case of first order primitives by R G Golledge and Temporal databases by R T Snodgrass

Mimicking the Extracellular Matrix Gregory A

Hudalla,William L Murphy,2019-03-15 The extracellular matrix ECM is the focus of much interest in biology and bioengineering Increasing understanding of the influence of the ECM on cell behaviour has led to the exciting possibilities of tissue engineering Aside from new therapeutic tools understanding the ECM is of course fundamental to basic cell biology research Mimicking the Extracellular Matrix approaches this topic from both basic science and practical engineering perspectives Seven topics are approached each in a pair of chapters one with a biological approach and its partner with a bioengineering approach Topics include the mechanical properties of the ECM which outlines current knowledge of the ECM physical structure and reviewing state of the art strategies to mimic its native microenvironments The organisational characteristics of the ECM form the focus of another pair of chapters where the collagen triple helix is discussed followed by a review of advances in artificial reproduction of well ordered systems using self assembling peptides or peptide amphiphiles The balanced approach of this text gives it a broad appeal to those interested in the ECM from a range of backgrounds and disciplines Suitable for undergraduates postgraduates and academics this text aims to unify the current knowledge of ECM biology and matrix mimicking biomaterials
