Engineering Surveying W Schofield,Mark Breach,2007-02-14

Engineering surveying involves determining the position of natural and man made features on or beneath the Earth's surface and utilizing these features in the planning design and construction of works It is a critical part of any engineering project Without an accurate understanding of the size shape and nature of the site the project risks expensive and time consuming errors or even catastrophic failure This fully updated sixth edition of Engineering Surveying covers all the basic principles and practice of the fundamentals such as vertical control distance angles and position right through to the most modern technologies It includes An introduction to geodesy to facilitate greater understanding of satellite systems A fully updated chapter on GPS GLONASS and GALILEO for satellite positioning in surveying All new chapter on the important subject of rigorous estimation of control coordinates Detailed material on mass data methods of photogrammetry and laser scanning and the role of inertial technology in them With many worked examples and illustrations of tools and techniques it suits students and professionals alike involved in surveying civil structural and mining engineering and related areas such as geography and mapping

Fossil Energy Update ,1986    Creating Intelligent Content with Lightweight DITA Carlos Evia,2018-12-07

Creating Intelligent Content with Lightweight DITA documents the evolution of the Darwin Information Typing Architecture DITA a widely used open standard for structuring technical content DITA has grown in popularity and features since its origins as an internal grammar for structuring technical documentation at IBM This book introduces Lightweight DITA LwDITA which should be read as Lightweight DITA as a proposed version of the DITA standard that reduces its dependence on complex Extensible Markup Language XML structures and simplifies its authoring experience This volume aims to reconcile discrepancies and similarities in methods for authoring content in industry and academia and does so by reporting on DITA's evolution through the lens of computational thinking which has been connected in scholarship and media to initiatives for learning to code and programming. Evia's core argument is that if technical communicators are trained with principles of rhetorical problem solving and computational thinking they can create structured content in lightweight workflows with XML, HTML5 and Markdown designed to reduce the learning curve associated with DITA and similar authoring methodologies. At the same time this book has the goal of making concepts of structured authoring and intelligent content easier to learn and teach in humanities based writing and communication programs. This book is intended for practitioners and students interested in structured authoring or the DITA standard.

Describing Prescriptivism Ingrid Tieken-Boon van Oostade, 2019-10-08. Describing Prescriptivism provides a topical and thought provoking analysis of linguistic prescriptivism in British and American English from a historical as well as present day perspective. Focusing on usage guides and usage problems the book takes a three fold approach to present an in depth analysis of the topic featuring a detailed study of the advice provided in usage guides over the years an authoritative comparison of this advice with actual usage as recorded in British and American corpora including the HUGE Hyper Usage Guide of English database developed specifically to enable this line of study as well as more mainstream corpora such as COCA COHA and the BNC a close analysis of the attitudes to particular usage problems among the general public based on surveys distributed online through the Bridging the Unbridgeable research project's blog. With extensive case studies to illustrate and support claims throughout this comprehensive study is key reading for students and researchers of prescriptivism the history of English and sociolinguistics.
