Nick Casanova,2008-11-18 The key to being successful at love is to be playful, playfully suggestive, playfully romantic and playfully bantering. Flirting is how you send the message that you're interested without saying so directly. If you do it well, you can keep your prospect amused, giddy, titillated, flattered and insulted all at the same time. Flirting is also how you establish that you have a sense of humor, that you're smart and that you're sane. And it's how you tell whether your prospect has those same qualities. If both of you are in the right mood, these routines can be great fun. The book is divided into two sections, one for women and the other for men. Since it is usually the man who does the chasing and the woman who does the choosing, these different roles lend themselves to different styles of flirting. Despite gender differences, however, most but not all of the chapters can be adapted for use by the opposite sex. The Machiavellian's Guide to Charm

Nick Casanova,2008-02-19 Charm is the ultimate social lubricant. It puts people at ease and soothes tensions in any situation. Charm can stop feuds, create friendships, and even spread joy. It's what makes people laugh and want to be around you. With enough charm, you'll move forward in academia, achieve business success, and enjoy happier, more satisfying relations with loved ones. The Machiavellian's Guide to Charm breaks down the individual components of the sometimes elusive trait of charm and reveals the secret to putting it to work for you. With his unique brand of humor, author Nick Casanova delivers examples of how different personalities—a stiff, a boor, and a charmer—would react in various situations and shows you how to harness the power of charm by focusing on five key elements: Flattery, Empathy, Self-deprecation, Humor, and Calmness. It's entirely possible for anyone to master the art of charm. The principles outlined in The Machiavellian's Guide to Charm are timeless and can be tailored to fit every individual.
