Thomas Jeffersons Quran Islam And The Founders:

Thomas Jefferson's Qur'an Denise A. Spellberg, 2013 In this original and illuminating book Denise A Spellberg reveals a little known but crucial dimension of the story of American religious freedom a drama in which Islam played a surprising role In 1765 eleven years before composing the Declaration of Independence Thomas Jefferson bought a Qur'an This marked only the beginning of his lifelong interest in Islam and he would go on to acquire numerous books on Middle Eastern languages history and travel taking extensive notes on Islam as it relates to English common law Jefferson sought to understand Islam notwithstanding his personal disdain for the faith a sentiment prevalent among his Protestant contemporaries in England and America But unlike most of them by 1776 Jefferson could imagine Muslims as future citizens of his new country Based on groundbreaking research Spellberg compellingly recounts how a handful of the Founders Jefferson foremost among them drew upon Enlightenment ideas about the toleration of Muslims then deemed the ultimate outsiders in Western society to fashion out of what had been a purely speculative debate a practical foundation for governance in America In this way Muslims who were not even known to exist in the colonies became the imaginary outer limit for an unprecedented uniquely American religious pluralism that would also encompass the actual despised minorities of Jews and Catholics The rancorous public dispute concerning the inclusion of Muslims for which principle Jefferson's political foes would vilify him to the end of his life thus became decisive in the Founders ultimate judgment not to establish a Protestant nation as they might well have done

Whose Middle Ages? Andrew Albin, Mary C. Erler, Thomas O'Donnell, Nicholas L. Paul, Nina Rowe, 2019-10-15
 Whose Middle Ages is an interdisciplinary collection of short accessible essays intended for the nonspecialist reader and ideal for teaching at an undergraduate level. Each of twenty-two essays takes up an area where digging for meaning in the medieval past has brought something distorted back into the present in our popular entertainment, in our news, our politics, and our propaganda, and in subtler ways that inform how we think about our histories, our countries, and ourselves. Each author looks to a history that has refused to remain past and uses the tools of the academy to read and re-read familiar stories, objects, symbols, and myths. Whose Middle Ages gives nonspecialists access to the richness of our historical knowledge while debunking damaging misconceptions about the medieval past. Myths about the medieval period are especially beloved among the globally resurgent far right, from crusading emblems on the shields borne by alt-right demonstrators to the on-screen image of a purely white European populace defended from actors of color by Internet trolls. This collection attacks these myths directly by insisting that readers encounter the relics of the Middle Ages on their own terms. Each essay uses its author's academic research as a point of entry and takes care to explain how the author knows what she or he knows and what kinds of tools, bodies of evidence, and theoretical lenses allow scholars to write with certainty about elements of the past to a level of detail that might seem unattainable. By demystifying the methods of scholarly inquiry, Whose Middle Ages serves as an antidote not only to the far right's errors of fact and interpretation but also to its assault on scholarship and expertise as valid means for the acquisition of knowledge.

Religion and the State in American Law Boris I. Bittker, Scott C. Idleman, Frank S. Ravitch, 2015-10-06
 Religion and the State in American Law provides a comprehensive and up-to-date overview of religion and government in the United States from historical origins to modern laws and rulings. In addition to extensive coverage of the religion clauses of the First Amendment, it addresses many statutory, regulatory, and common law developments at both the federal and state levels. Topics include the history of church-state relations and religious liberty, religion in the classroom, and expressions of religion in government. This book also covers the role of religion in specific areas of law, such as contracts, taxation, employment, land use, regulation, torts, criminal law, and domestic relations, as well as in specialized contexts such as prisons and the military. Accessible to the general as well as the professional reader, this book will be of use to scholars, judges, practising lawyers, and the media.

Islamic Education in the United States and the Evolution of Muslim Nonprofit Institutions Sabith Khan, Shariq Siddiqui, 2017
 This book is a novel and ambitious attempt to map the Muslim American nonprofit sector, its origins, growth, and impact on American society. Using theories from the fields of philanthropy, public administration, and data gathered from surveys and interviews, the authors make a compelling case for the Muslim American nonprofit sector's key role in America. They argue that in a time when Islamic schools are grossly misunderstood, there is a need to examine them closely for the landscape of these schools is far more complex than meets the eye. The authors who are both scholars of philanthropy examine how identity impacts philanthropy and also the various forces that have shaped the landscape of Muslim American giving in the US Using a comparative method of analysis they showcase how this sector has contributed not only to individual communities but also to the country as a whole National surveys and historical analysis offer data that is rich in insights and offers a compelling narrative of the sector as a whole through its focus on Islamic schools The authors also critically examine how nonprofit leaders in the community legitimize their own roles and that of their organizations and offer a compelling and insightful examination of how Muslim American leaders perceive their own role in institution building This is a must read for anyone seeking to understand this important and growing sector of American society including nonprofit leaders in the Muslim community leaders of Islamic schools nonprofit leaders with interest in private schools activists and scholars who study philanthropy and Islamic education
