Archaeological digs have turned up sculptures in Inuit lands that are thousands of years old but Inuit art as it is known today only dates back to the beginning of the 1900s Early art was traditionally produced from soft materials such as whalebone and tools and objects were also fashioned out of stone bone and ivory because these materials were readily available The Inuit people are known not just for their sculpture but for their graphic art as well the most prominent forms being lithographs and stonecuts This work affords easy access to information to those interested in any type of Inuit art There are annotated entries on over 3 761 articles books catalogues government documents and other publications Index to Craft Journals, 1984-1988: Authors Beth Hatton, 1990 Ann Hamilton Joan Simon, 2002-04 These process oriented installations perhaps more accurately called tableaux vivants are so particular to their sites that after their initial showing they survive only in photographs sketches and other descriptive documents Of more than sixty installations created by Hamilton since 1981 only a fraction have been published in journals and exhibition catalogues and few but the most intrepid travelers have experienced a significant number of these works in person along the international routes in Sao Paulo Sydney and Venice or across North America from Banff Canada to Santa Barbara California to Columbus Ohio and Charleston South Carolina
